TRUMAN GETS FOOD RECOMMENDATIONS

U. S. ASKED FOR 15 BILLIONS TO HELP EUROPE

Marshall Plan Conferees Call America 'Sole Savior' In Report

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22—The United States, called the sole savior of war-torn Europe, was asked today to spend 15 billion 810 million dollars in the next four years under the Marshall plan for European economic recovery.

Sixteen western European nations, emphasizing that they were prepared for a high degree of self-help and mutual aid, presented to the state department a summary of the findings of the Paris conference on the Marshall program.

The summary declared: "In the last analysis, the external means of recovery can in largest measure come only from the United States, which has by its assistance in the last two years already rescued Europe from collapse and chaos."

THE CONFEEES asserted that on the decision of the American people any congress "will depend whether Europe can achieve economic stability and thereby be enabled to make her full contribution to the welfare of the world."

The report, released simultaneously in 17 world capitals, stressed as objectives:

Restoration of pre-war European food production; restoration of pre-war merchant fleets of the participating countries by 1951, and increases of coal, power and fuel production and transportation facilities to levels at or above the 1938 figures.

THE UNITED STATES alone was asked to contribute 15 billion 810 million dollars to the recovery of the participating nations.

Other republics of North and South America were asked to make available five billion 970 million dollars.

United States dependencies were requested to put up 66 million dollars.

The total aid figure arrived at in the Paris conference actually was 22 billion 440 million dollars. It was expected that of this sum three billion 110 million dollars would be assumed by the international bank to finance heavy equipment.

THE SUMMARY emphasized that most of the capital equipment needed for industrial expansion in the participating countries would be supplied through European production.

The conferees noted the necessity for a three billion dollar currency stabilization fund because of upset internal conditions in a number of war-ravaged countries.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

By Walter Kiernan

Sen. O'Daniel charges that the government has concealed 280 million dozen eggs. Us chickens have a right to complain about that.

The way it looks now we are headed for a national omelette—and it won't be all eggs.

Not that it will be new—in 1922 Fiorello LaGuardia was waving a pork chop in the halls of congress and shouting, "what working man can afford to pay 30 cents for one chop?"

And in 1895 a fellow named Jerome K. Jerome wrote, "what the rent of an apartment must have been 20 years ago makes one shudder to think of."

The only thing that's changed in the play is the cast—the stage, props, lines and billing are all the same.

It doesn't prove that we don't learn anything—that we don't know we've learned it.

New Russian Troops Moving Into Germany

LONDON, Sept. 22—A Berlin dispatch to the London News Chronicle said today that new Russian troops are being moved into strategic positions in the Soviet zone of occupation in Germany and that all along the Baltic coast "the gloves of war are being put on again."

The dispatch said that the Russian troops, including tank formations, are being moved in readiness for any situation which may arise if the November conference in London of the Big Four foreign ministers fails.

The action also was attributed in part to Soviet desires to be prepared if "the existing fundamental East-West disagreement over Germany's future crystallizes into an open cleavage."

'ROBOT' PILOTS ARMY PLANE TO ENGLAND

LONDON, Sept. 22—A giant United States Army C-54 transport plane landed at a British airfield today after flying across the Atlantic entirely on instrument control from Gander, Newfoundland.

The big four-motored ship took off from Wilmington, O., and made the long flight by automatic pilot with only one stop at Gander. The C-54 landed at Brize Norton, a royal air force station in Oxfordshire some 90 miles from London.

From the initial take-off throughout the flight, the plane used instruments only for get-aways and otherwise the controls were not touched by human hands. The plane carried 14 persons, including civilians and personnel of the Royal Air Force and the United States Army Air Force. It carried a self-contained electronic mechanism.

ORREN UPDYKE STILL IN 'ONLY FAIR' CONDITION

Condition of Orren Updyke, 61, Route 1, Ashville, was reported "only fair" at noon Monday by attaches at the Grant hospital in Columbus.

Mr. Updyke, widely known Pickaway county farmer, auctioneer, and a member of the Democratic central committee, suffered serious injuries in a traffic accident Friday on U. S. Route 23 between Big Walnut and Shadeville in Franklin county. Swerving his auto to avoid hitting a boy on a bicycle Mr. Updyke crashed head on with a car driven by Howard Wolfe, 47, railroad worker, Circleville.

GULF COAST IN PATH OF STORM DUE FROM CUBA

Mississippi Rescue Workers Report 56 Dead, 100 Still Missing After Blow

GULFPORT, Miss., Sept. 22—A new tropical storm moving toward the Mississippi gulf coast with mounting intensity was virtually ignored today by weary survivors of the hurricane-devastated area to whose rebuilding efforts was added the threat of poisonous snakes and fire.

The fresh storm, with winds reaching 50 miles an hour, appeared headed for the same Louisiana and Mississippi area struck Friday by a howling 100-mile-an-hour hurricane which left an estimated 56 dead and 100 missing.

THE NEW STORM was located this morning 90 miles southwest of Key West, Fla., moving on a course between north and northwest. Its speed had increased since Sunday to 20 miles an hour.

But red-eyed workers in the flattened coast area said: "We've got too much to worry about right now without talking about another blow."

THE FIRE HAZARD was caused when a barge load of inflammable creosote was dumped into the Gulf of Mexico off the Gulfport area. The creosote spread over a large section of the water, and fireboats were standing by in case of an emergency.

Venomous snakes were reported to have slithered from the Mississippi swamplands into piles of debris strewn along the coastline.

At 9 o'clock last night curfew was imposed in Gulfport. Passes were required after that hour, and National Guardsmen were under shoot-to-kill orders to prevent looting. Two additional Mississippi National Guard units comprising 48 men were ordered to Gulfport from Jackson.

The furious storm and tidal waves leveled large sections of the luxurious resort area of Biloxi and Gulfport.

Even as officials attempted to estimate the damage and enlist aid for homeless refugees, red storm warning flags were hoisted along the southeast Florida coast as airplanes located the tropical disturbance south of Cuba.

CHILD FOUND DEAD

MT. GILEAD, O., Sept. 22—Funeral arrangements were made today for five-year-old Barry Van Atta, son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Van Atta of nearby Edison. The child's body was discovered in a creek Saturday, five hours after he disappeared from home.

BABY BOY BORN TO MOTHER, 24, ILL WITH POLIO

AKRON, O., Sept. 22—The normal birth of a baby boy to a 24-year-old Akron woman suffering polio highlighted reports today from the nation's most severely stricken infantile paralysis area.

Mrs. Margie Poole gave birth yesterday to a son, who attending physicians said showed no signs of being afflicted with the deadly disease.

Both the mother and child were reported in good condition at Children's hospital, where the birth was the first since the institution was established in 1910. Mrs. Poole, whose husband, Lonnie, is an Erie railroad employee, has been confined to the hospital since Aug. 14 for polio treatments.

Hector McNeil Flays Russian Attack On United States In UN Assembly

FLUSHING MEADOWS, N. Y., Sept. 22—Britain warned Soviet Russia before the General Assembly today that non-cooperation and continued attempts to impose her sole will on the United Nations will destroy the U. N. and provoke "hideous consequences."

In one of the severest tongue-lashings handed a major power and one of its leading statesmen, British Undersecretary Hector McNeil pointed by point hauled Andrei Y. Vishinsky over the coals for his flaying of the United States and Britain as war mongers last week.

Taking the rostrum before the thousand delegates after Syrian Farris El Khouri opened the second week of discussions, McNeil avowed Britain's unbroken faith in the U. N., but branded variously as "monstrous," "obvious nonsense," "irresponsible" and in other ways Vishinsky's allegations.

Cool Weather Hits Area; Storms Blamed For Two Deaths In Buckeye State

Farmers and gardeners in Pickaway county were worrying about frost Monday as Autumn "breezes" brought out coats and hurry-up calls for coal.

A rain and windstorm which hit Sunday evening brought a temperature drop which sent the official mercury from a high of 87 Sunday to a low of 53 degrees during the night. Monday morning the mercury stood at 57 but a bright sun had failed at noon to bring it up very high.

Official weather forecasts said "quite cool" Monday night bringing worry to those who have late garden crops and corn which has not yet matured.

Little damage was reported from the storm which dropped 1.20 inches of rain. County highway workers were called out to clear a tree off the Kingston pike and one on a Washington township road. County Engineer Henry McCrady said the highways were cleared for traffic Monday morning.

CHILLING WINDS buffeted Ohio today in the wake of a storm which claimed at least two lives and caused extensive property damage over the state last night.

Scores of injuries also resulted as most of the state was hit by gale-like winds, which weather bureau forecasters said were an offshoot of last week's tropical hurricane.

Forecaster said that warm winds from the South ran pell-mell into a mass of cool air moving out of the Northwest. The resulting disturbance wrecked havoc over the entire Great Lakes area as winds reached velocities in excess of 65 miles an hour and drenching rains flooded many areas.

POWER AND telephone failures were numerous as falling trees and branches broke many lines. A number of automobiles were struck by limbs and roads were temporarily blocked by trees and other debris.

NEW YORK HAS MOURNING DAY FOR LAGUARDIA

NEW YORK, Sept. 22 — The world's largest city held an official day of mourning today for former mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia, champion of the "plain people," who died Saturday.

The huge Protestant Episcopal cathedral of St. John the Divine is too small to hold the mourners who would like to attend the services at 1:30 p. m. EST today. But 50,000 of New York's millions filed past "The Little Flower's" bier yesterday as he lay in state at the foot of the great nave.

All day Sunday the city's radio stations broadcast tributes and dramatized stories of the life of the son of an Italian bandmaster who rose to head a liberal-reform city administration for three terms.

Dignitaries from all over the nation joined LaGuardia's immediate family and friends at the cathedral this afternoon to pay final tribute.

Yesterday was the day on which working men and women—some clutching their children by the hand—silently and respectfully marched past the coffin of the popular ex-mayor. At times sobs could be heard over sound of shuffling feet in the hushed cathedral.

BURGLARS RAID CIRCLEVILLE OIL

$312.29 Taken From Station; Outbuilding On Berger Farm Looted

Burglars stole $312.29 from the Circleville Oil company filling station at the northwest corner of North Court and High streets Sunday night.

Some time between 9:30 p. m. Sunday and 7:45 a. m. Monday thieves smashed the glass from a window on the north side of the building. The currency and coins were in a receptacle which had been deposited in a cupboard when the station was closed about 9:30 p. m. Sunday. The burglars made their exit via the window.

The burglary was discovered by Leslie May, manager, when he reopened the filling station at 7:45 a. m. Monday. He immediately reported the robbery to police.

Police Chief William F. McCrady said there was no indication as to whether more than one person participated in the burglary.

THIEVES who looted an outbuilding at the farm of Herman Berger in Walnut township, Route 2, Ashville, were sought Monday by the Pickaway county sheriff's department.

Stolen from an outbuilding early Saturday night while Mr. Berger was operating a tractor on a distant section of the farm were four 20-pound smoked hams, one box of cigars, five boxes of shotgun shells, one pair of pliers, one 22-caliber rifle, three steel fishing rods, two reels, and other articles.

The theft was discovered when Mrs. Berger, who had been visiting a neighbor, drove into the barnyard and noticed the door of the outbuilding was ajar.

Sheriff Charles Radcliff said an intensive search was launched for sneak-thieves who have raided farm homes on weekend forays in several central Ohio counties in recent weeks. He said seven such robberies have been perpetrated in Pickaway county thus far in 1947.

FROST WARNING ISSUED; COLD DUE IN NORTH

CLEVELAND, Sept. 22—The weather bureau today issued its first frost warning of the Fall season, which officially begins tomorrow.

In a special forecast, the weather bureau predicted scattered light frost tonight in northern Ohio, with the exception of along the southern shores of Lake Erie.

Forecaster A. S. Klemetsmo said that near-freezing temperatures were expected to occur from Columbus northward.

Cold air from the Northwest was penetrating all of Ohio in the wake of last night's storm which caused heavy property damage over the state.

ANDERSON SAYS PLANS TO FIGHT COSTS READIED

President And Cabinet Study World Crisis And High Prices At Home

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22—Secretary of Agriculture Anderson said today that the cabinet food committee will make definite recommendations to President Truman toward solution of the world food crisis and the inflationary spiral in the United States.

Anderson said the recommendations will be made directly to the president at a White House conference scheduled today.

The agriculture secretary made his announcement after a 90-minute meeting of the cabinet food committee attended by Secretary of State Marshall, Secretary of Commerce Harriman, Secretary of the Army Royall, and their top advisers.

MARSHALL, immediately after the food-price meeting in Anderson's office, reported to President Truman on the troubled international situation, with special emphasis on the European famine threat.

The secretary of state was expected to ask Mr. Truman to call a special session of congress to act on European aid needs.

Anderson declared that his fellow cabinet members on the food committee were in complete agreement on steps to be taken to ease the situation growing out of skyrocketing prices in America and critical shortages overseas.

Marshall told reporters that the meeting, for which he made a special trip from the United Nations general assembly, was "satisfactory" to him.

Anderson said: "We are meeting with the President this afternoon to give him our ideas of the world food situation and such recommendations as we can make for the future."

"Until that meeting is held and the recommendations are made, that is as much as we can say."

"We have some pretty definite suggestions to make to the President."

The secretary of state, who made a special trip from the United Nations general assembly to report to the President on Europe and to attend the food-price meeting, is expected to return to New York tonight.

ESTIMATED 3,611 CASUALTIES IN JAPANESE FLOOD

TOKYO, Sept. 22 — Southern waters of a flood, that caused at least 3,611 casualties in the heart of Japan, were receding today from the northern districts of the Tokyo metropolitan area.

At its peak the deluge, which devastated wide portions of northern and central Honshu island, had inundated 64 square kilometers within the boundaries of Japan's capital city. The homes of 550,000 Tokyo residents were affected.

Latest total casualty figures for the entire flood region—as issued by the Japanese Home Ministry—listed 943 persons dead, 1,079 missing and 1,589 injured in the disaster brought to Honshu by a typhoon last Monday night. The statistics were not yet complete.

American occupation authorities, assisted by Japanese officials, appeared to have won their battle against mass disease and disorder that usually trail in the wake of such disasters.

While the U. S. Army continued to rescue thousands of marooned Japanese, American soldiers rigidly patrolled the flood areas of Japan's main island to prevent looting.

Maj. Gen. William C. Chase, Commander of the First Cavalry Division, said 50 per cent of his troops were still alerted for rescue, relief and patrol work.

New Russian Troops Moving Into Germany

LONDON, Sept. 22—A Berlin dispatch to the London News Chronicle said today that new Russian troops are being moved into strategic positions in the Soviet zone of occupation in Germany and that all along the Baltic coast "the gloves of war are being put on again."

The dispatch said that the Russian troops, including tank formations, are being moved in readiness for any situation which may arise if the November conference in London of the Big Four foreign ministers fails.

The action also was attributed in part to Soviet desires to be prepared if "the existing fundamental East-West disagreement over Germany's future crystallizes into an open cleavage."

THE CHRONICLE'S correspondent said that the Soviet government, while having no intention of scaring the world with a threat of a new aggressive war, believed the outcome of the London conference may make Russia's strategic position in central Europe insecure. Consequently, it was said they are taking precautionary measures.

Berlin observers were said to regard the action as indicative of Russian nervousness rather than aggressive intent. The troop movements were described officially as Fall maneuvers.

During the last month it was said 500 German families in Schwerin were given only 18 hours to leave their homes to make room for Soviet troops.

Even Soviet-sponsored provincial government officials were asked to leave their villas in various parts of Mecklenburg.

Zorbaugh said the comics themselves will be used as a basic text in the course which begins on Wednesday. He said:

"The readership of the comics—daily and Sunday strips, and their offspring, comic books—is one of the amazing phenomena of our contemporary society.

ANDERSON SAYS PLANS TO FIGHT COSTS READIED

President And Cabinet Study World Crisis And High Prices At Home

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22—Secretary of Agriculture Anderson said today that the cabinet food committee will make definite recommendations to President Truman toward solution of the world food crisis and the inflationary spiral in the United States.

Anderson said the recommendations will be made directly to the president at a White House conference scheduled today.

The agriculture secretary made his announcement after a 90-minute meeting of the cabinet food committee attended by Secretary of State Marshall, Secretary of Commerce Harriman, Secretary of the Army Royall, and their top advisers.

MARSHALL, immediately after the food-price meeting in Anderson's office, reported to President Truman on the troubled international situation, with special emphasis on the European famine threat.

The secretary of state was expected to ask Mr. Truman to call a special session of congress to act on European aid needs.

Anderson declared that his fellow cabinet members on the food committee were in complete agreement on steps to be taken to ease the situation growing out of skyrocketing prices in America and critical shortages overseas.

Marshall told reporters that the meeting, for which he made a special trip from the United Nations general assembly, was "satisfactory" to him.

Anderson said: "We are meeting with the President this afternoon to give him our ideas of the world food situation and such recommendations as we can make for the future."

"Until that meeting is held and the recommendations are made, that is as much as we can say."

"We have some pretty definite suggestions to make to the President."

The secretary of state, who made a special trip from the United Nations general assembly to report to the President on Europe and to attend the food-price meeting, is expected to return to New York tonight.

ESTIMATED 3,611 CASUALTIES IN JAPANESE FLOOD

TOKYO, Sept. 22—Southern waters of a flood, that caused at least 3,611 casualties in the heart of Japan, were receding today from the northern districts of the Tokyo metropolitan area.

At its peak the deluge, which devastated wide portions of northern and central Honshu island, had inundated 64 square kilometers within the boundaries of Japan's capital city. The homes of 550,000 Tokyo residents were affected.

Latest total casualty figures for the entire flood region—as issued by the Japanese Home Ministry—listed 943 persons dead, 1,079 missing and 1,539 injured in the disaster brought to Honshu by a typhoon last Monday night. The statistics were not yet complete.

American occupation authorities, assisted by Japanese officials, appeared to have won their battle against mass disease and disorder that usually trail in the wake of such disasters.

While the U. S. Army continued to rescue thousands of marooned Japanese, American soldiers rigidly patrolled the flood areas of Japan's main island to prevent looting.

Maj. Gen. William C. Chase, Commander of the First Cavalry Division, said 50 per cent of his troops were still alerted for rescue, relief and patrol work.

since his return from Brazil, devoted his entire attention to the food-price problem and the European situation.

The President scheduled a conference with Marshall, and was to meet briefly at the cabinet food committee. Mr. Truman's calling list was kept free of all other engagements.

Anderson, Marshall and Harrison may recommend to the President a voluntary rationing program for American consumers. The recommendations also may call for a drastically lowered ceiling on grain exports.

Before the cabinet trio went into their deliberations, it was reported that Mr. Truman, just returned from a 20-day trip to Brazil, may appeal to the nation by radio to adopt a program of self-denial and austerity living this winter.

Meanwhile, there were these developments:—

1. Former President Herbert Hoover appealed to the nation for a "voluntary reduction in consumption to save human life." He predicted the next 12 months will be a "grim food year" for the world.

2. A federal grand jury in Chicago opened an investigation of high food prices to cover the meat and milk industries in that city and their relationship to food prices.

3. Two national organizations, the League of Women Voters and the Progressive Citizens of America, called for a special session of congress. A third, the American veterans committee advocated restoration of the second war powers act to give the administration power to "increase supplies of scarce resources, to limit the production of non-essentials and to distribute scarce materials such as steel and grain."

4. The CIO food, tobacco, agricultural and allied workers demanded that Mr. Truman declare "a state of national emergency" and seize commodity markets to cut food costs.

5. State Agricultural Commissioners J. E. McDonald of Texas and Tom Linder of Georgia demanded that Secretary Anderson resign "before our entire economy is disrupted."

6. Undersecretary of Agriculture Norris E. Dodd warned that the damage to our corn crop is going to have repercussions all over the world.

7. The commerce department reported that fats and oils from domestic materials are likely to reach a peacetime record of nine and a half billion pounds in the crop year now ending.

DELAY EXPECTED IN WRITING OF PEACE TREATY

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22—State department officials foresee today the possibility of further delay in writing of the German, Japanese and Austrian peace treaties as a result of Russia's attack on American foreign policy.

In view of the Soviet attitude, as voiced so vehemently in New York by Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky, little or no hope of progress is anticipated when the Big Four conference of foreign ministers resume deliberations in London this November.

The big four has wrestled with the German and Austrian treaties variously at Paris, New York and Moscow during the past two years without success. Impasse over formal Japanese peace has been further aggravated in the past week with the United States and Russia at complete odds.

When Secretary of State Marshall, British Foreign Secretary Bevin and French Foreign Minister Bidault left their host, Foreign Minister Molotov, in Moscow earlier this year, it was agreed tentatively that the four men might get together informally in New York simultaneously with the United Nations General Assembly.

Marshall and Bidault are in New York. Molotov and Bevin are not—although Bevin will come immediately when the Soviet foreign minister does. November, however, appears to be the earliest date for resumption of debate over Germany and Austria.

Hungary recently issued stamps honoring the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt. There are four postage values symbolizing the "Four Free Freedoms," with the portrait of Roosevelt in the upper left corner of each value and symbolic or scenic designs to the right.

The United States Continental Congress established a beer ration of one quart a soldier a day.

DAMAGE ESTIMATED AT 75 YOUTHS IN FREE-FOR-ALL FIGHT AT BIS

LANCASTER, O., Sept. 22—Penalties were meted out today to ring-leaders of 75 youths at the Boys Industrial School who engaged in a free-for-all fight in the institution's dining hall Sunday morning.

Col. Harold Hayes, school superintendent, said the trouble started with 35 Negro boys who live in Patterson cottage began a name-calling contest with 40 white boys of Muskingum cottage. Fist fights broke out, dishes were thrown and two boys were injured seriously before officers brought the boys under control.

Colonel Hayes said the two boys required hospitalization for bruises and cuts. Four of the ring-leaders of Patterson cottage were spanked and given disciplinary action as well as having 15 days added to their commitment time.

Both cottages were given restrictions and their privileges taken away for two weeks. One white boy was given 15 days on a work squad.

The free-for-all fight resulted in the breaking of six large windows in the dining hall and other damage to the building.

$120,000 was reported in Cincinnati as winds reached a velocity of 50 miles an hour in that area. More than two inches of rain fell and the winds blew over trees and caused damage to utility lines.

A woman was injured when she was struck by a falling tree limb while she was visiting the Cincinnati zoo.

At Tiffin the storm was described as the worst in seven years. Trees were leveled and many homes damaged in the area. Property damage was estimated at several thousand dollars.

In Cleveland the gale caused most damage to utility lines. Large areas on the city's east side were without power for more than six hours and radio broadcasting stations WHK and WJW were off the air for several hours.

Chagrin Falls, near Akron, was flooded by downpours and the wind caused much damage in the area. State route 422 was under water for several hours and traffic had to be rerouted by state highway patrolmen.

Many hospitals had to resort to emergency lighting and in one instance, at the Community hospital in Bedford, a baby girl was born during the height of the storm.

In a matter of minutes in many places yesterday temperatures dropped from the high 80's into the 50's as the cool air swirled over the state. The mercury dropped 22 degrees in one hour in Cleveland.

TODAY CRISP winds were blowing between 20 and 25 miles an hour to give Ohioans their first taste of autumn, which officially begins at 4:29 p. m. EST tomorrow.

Equinoctial storms are associated with the start of the Fall season and in this case they were almost exactly on time. The weatherman, however, said that prevailing conditions rather than the time of the year are responsible for storms during this period.

"It is the seasonal conflict of hot and cold air," forecasters said, "when the area gets into more normal Fall conditions, storms of this nature will be on the decrease."

The lowest temperatures since early last Spring were in the making for most of Ohio as an aftermath of the storm. The mercury dropped into the 40's this morning and was not expected to get any higher than the 50's today.

Weathermen said that temperatures would drop into the low 40's tonight, with the weather remaining cool through tomorrow. He said there would be some warming up by Wednesday. There is no frost danger at present, they said.

HIGH AND LOW temperatures and rainfall in inches, respectively, for various points for the 24-hour period ending at 8 a. m. today were: Akron 84-51; Chesapeake 91-58, .98; Cincinnati 85-58, 2.08; Cleveland 85-51, 1.12; Columbus 85-54, 1.04; Dayton 85-53, 1.31; East Liverpool 86-51, .61; Findlay 84-47, .01; Hayesville 81-48, 1.34; Parkersburg, W. Va., 89-56, .57; Perry 85-53, 1.04; Toledo 84-46, 1.14; Wilmington 86-54; Youngstown 85-50, and Zanesville 85-53, .82.

STOCKS SLOW

NEW YORK, Sept. 22—Stocks eased today in dull trading. Some shares showed resistance to the light selling. Motors were off from the start but declines were limited. Steels, after a firm opening, took a lower path. Copper turned soft near noon and most rubbers were down a shade.

120 REBELS KILLED

LONDON, Sept. 22—A Reuters dispatch from Athens said today that 120 guerrillas were killed and 30 injured and captured in a hard-fought battle with Greek regulars in the Kastanohoria district of Thessaly.

STRIKE THREAT CANCELS SOVIET TRAINING PLAN

BUCHANAN, Mich., Sept. 22—The Clark Equipment company dropped plans today to train Russians in American production methods at its Buchanan plant, in the face of a strike threat.

Company President George Statta said seven Russian inspectors and engineers due to arrive today would be told they cannot operate special machines, but instead will be allowed to watch production.

His announcement followed by a few hours a statement by Reginald Boyle, president of Local 468, CIO-UAW. Boyle said 800 Clark workers approved a strike vote on Thursday at a mass meeting during which they bitterly protested the training program.

The workers adopted a resolution condemning the company's plan and sent copies to President Truman, the U. S. State Department and Michigan Senators Vandenberg and Ferguson, both Republicans.

The union statement declared: "We are unalterably opposed to training the citizens of a foreign power which might conceivably be at war with us in the near future."

Boyle said the seven Russians would displace American workers, while learning to apply U. S. methods to Soviet production.

The Clark plant makes axle housings. Its contract with the Russian government was made in 1946, with U. S. State Department approval.

NO CLUES TO MISSING GIRL UNCOVERED YET

MARION, O., Sept. 22—An expected break in the mystery surrounding the disappearance of a 16-year-old Prospect farm girl failed to materialize today.

Marion county sheriff Le Roy Retterer said he suspected "there might be some foul play" when some of Roxie Ann Green's wearing apparel was found near her home. He discounted any kidnapping theory.

Two days of intensive investigation have failed to produce any material evidence other than a description of a car which was noticed in the neighborhood of the girl's home shortly before she was last seen Friday evening. However, Retterer said he did not have the license number of the vehicle.

The sheriff said the girl had attended a football game at Chesterville Friday afternoon. He said she had started to walk home from Prospect and never reached there.

ASHVILLE YOUTH BOUND OVER TO GRAND JURY

Elmer Swalbaugh, 23, Ashville, was in the Pickaway county jail Monday, in default of $1,000 bond, awaiting grand jury action on a statutory charge involving a 14-year-old Ashville girl.

Arrested Friday night Swalbaugh pleaded not guilty Saturday night before Justice of the Peace Harold O. Eveland. A 17-year-old Ashville youth, also arrested Friday night and similarly charged, was later released from the county jail.

MOTORIST JAILED AFTER AUTO HITS PARKED CAR

George R. Carley, 25, sheet metal worker, 621 North Court street, was arrested at 12:30 a. m. Sunday by Patrolmen John W. McGinnis and Ross Turney, on a charge of driving when intoxicated. Carley was released under $100 bond to await a hearing at 8 p. m. Monday before Mayor Ben H. Gordon.

Carley was taken into custody 40 minutes after the auto he drove south on South Scioto street struck the car of Lester E. Wolford, 36, farmer, Route 1, Circleville, which was parked along the east curb of Scioto street.

HARRY CAREY, COWBOY STAR IN 'LAST ROUNDUP'

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 22—The film industry today mourned the loss of one of its best-loved early-day stars, Harry Carey.

The veteran actor, in pictures since 1910, died late yesterday at his home on Mandeville Canyon road. He was 69.

The immediate cause of death was a coronary thrombosis, but a lung and heart condition which forced his retirement last year apparently was aggravated by the bite of a black widow spider at Balboa Beach a month ago.

Carey, a tall, hard-riding cowboy who roped and branded his own cattle on his ranch near Saugus, was a New York-born and raised easterner who became the idol of millions of young movie goers as the star of western "horse operas."

However, the portrayal that won him the widest acclaim was the title role in that African epic, "Trader Horn," filmed in Africa in 1929.

Another role, not a western, for which he was widely known was his part of the president of the senate in "Mr. Smith Goes To Washington."

His last roles were in "Duel In The Sun" and "Sea Of Grass."

Carey made his film debut with the old Biograph Company in "The Unseen Enemy."

Deaths and Funerals

MRS. ROY LEIST

Mrs. Edna Mae Leist, 52, South Bloomfield, died Saturday afternoon in the home of her stepson, Morris Vancosy, at Columbus, where she had been ill for about four months.

Her survivors are her husband, Roy Leist; Mr. Vancosy and two other stepsons, Carl Leist, Columbus; and Stanley Leist, Wichita, Kans.; her father, Silas Hart, Circleville; one sister, Mrs. Neva Anderson, Washburn, Ind.; two brothers, Otis Hart, Circleville; and Nolan Hart, Columbus; and a half-brother, William Loving, Lancaster.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2 p. m. Tuesday at the Defenbaugh funeral home, Circleville, with the Rev. Earl Anderson, Columbus, officiating. Burial will be in the Harrison township cemetery.

TAFT TOUR SAID 'CONTRIBUTION' TO GOP CAUSE

LAKE TAHOE, Nev., Sept. 22—Nevada GOP leaders said today that, win or lose in '48, Sen. Robert A. Taft, (R) O., has made a "contribution" to the cause of Republicanism by his stumping tour now moving into the Northwest.

Taft will inspect Shasta dam, across the state line in California, and enroute tonight for Seattle where his lieutenants expect him to face the "toughest" audience of his six-state speaking trip.

The senator will defend the Taft-Hartly labor law in his Wednesday Seattle address.

The consensus of Republican leaders in both California and Nevada was that the undeclared presidential candidate, in the first 12 days of his western engagement, has not swung any convention votes but has advanced his party's position.

STRIKE THREAT CANCELS SOVIET TRAINING PLAN

BUCHANAN, Mich., Sept. 22—The Clark Equipment company dropped plans today to train Russians in American production methods at its Buchanan plant, in the face of a strike threat.

Company President George Statta said seven Russian inspectors and engineers due to arrive today would be told they cannot operate special machines, but instead will be allowed to watch production.

His announcement followed by a few hours a statement by Reginald Boyle, president of Local 468, CIO-UAW. Boyle said 800 Clark workers approved a strike vote on Thursday at a mass meeting during which they bitterly protested the training program.

The workers adopted a resolution condemning the company's plan and sent copies to President Truman, the U. S. State Department and Michigan Senators Vandenberg and Ferguson, both Republicans.

The union statement declared: "We are unalterably opposed to training the citizens of a foreign power which might conceivably be at war with us in the near future."

Boyle said the seven Russians would displace American workers, while learning to apply U. S. methods to Soviet production.

The Clark plant makes axle housings. Its contract with the Russian government was made in 1946, with U. S. State Department approval.

NO CLUES TO MISSING GIRL UNCOVERED YET

MARION, O., Sept. 22—An expected break in the mystery surrounding the disappearance of a 16-year-old Prospect farm girl failed to materialize today.

Marion county sheriff Le Roy Retterer said he suspected "there might be some foul play" when some of Roxie Ann Green's wearing apparel was found near her home. He discounted any kidnapping theory.

Two days of intensive investigation have failed to produce any material evidence other than a description of a car which was noticed in the neighborhood of the girl's home shortly before she was last seen Friday evening. However, Retterer said he did not have the license number of the vehicle.

The sheriff said the girl had attended a football game at Chesterville Friday afternoon. He said she had started to walk home from Prospect and never reached there.

ASHVILLE YOUTH BOUND OVER TO GRAND JURY

Elmer Swalbaugh, 23, Ashville, was in the Pickaway county jail Monday, in default of $1,000 bond, awaiting grand jury action on a statutory charge involving a 14-year-old Ashville girl.

Arrested Friday night Swalbaugh pleaded not guilty Saturday night before Justice of the Peace Harold O. Eveland. A 17-year-old Ashville youth, also arrested Friday night and similarly charged, was later released from the county jail.

MOTORIST JAILED AFTER AUTO HITS PARKED CAR

George R. Carley, 25, sheet metal worker, 621 North Court street, was arrested at 12:30 a. m. Sunday by Patrolmen John W. McGinnis and Ross Turney, on a charge of driving when intoxicated. Carley was released under $100 bond to await a hearing at 8 p. m. Monday before Mayor Ben H. Gordon.

Carley was taken into custody 40 minutes after the auto he drove south on South Scioto street struck the car of Lester E. Wolford, 36, farmer, Route 1, Circleville, which was parked along the east curb of Scioto street.

HARRY CAREY, COWBOY STAR IN 'LAST ROUNDUP'

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 22—The film industry today mourned the loss of one of its best-loved early-day stars, Harry Carey.

The veteran actor, in pictures since 1910, died late yesterday at his home on Mandeville Canyon road. He was 69.

The immediate cause of death was a coronary thrombosis, but a lung and heart condition which forced his retirement last year apparently was aggravated by the bite of a black widow spider at Balboa Beach a month ago.

Carey, a tall, hard-riding cowboy who roped and branded his own cattle on his ranch near Saugus, was a New York-born and raised easterner who became the idol of millions of young movie goers as the star of western "horse operas."

However, the portrayal that won him the widest acclaim was the title role in that African epic, "Trader Horn," filmed in Africa in 1929.

Another role, not a western, for which he was widely known was his part of the president of the senate in "Mr. Smith Goes To Washington."

His last roles were in "Duel In The Sun" and "Sea Of Grass."

Carey made his film debut with the old Biograph Company in "The Unseen Enemy."

Deaths and Funerals

MRS. ROY LEIST

Mrs. Edna Mae Leist, 52, South Bloomfield, died Saturday afternoon in the home of her stepson, Morris Vanscoy, at Columbus, where she had been ill for about four months.

Her survivors are her husband, Roy Leist; Mr. Vanscoy and two other stepsons, Carl Leist, Columbus; and Stanley Leist, Wichita, Kans.; her father, Silas Hart, Circleville; one sister, Mrs. Neva Anderson, Wabash, Ind.; two brothers, Otis Hart, Circleville; and Nolan Hart, Columbus; and a half-brother, William Loving, Lancaster.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2 p. m. Tuesday at the Defenbaugh funeral home, Circleville, with the Rev. Earl Anderson, Columbus, officiating. Burial will be in the Harrison township cemetery.

INJURIES FATAL

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 22—Injuries received when he was struck by an automobile last Tuesday had caused the death today of Albert C. Costlow, 74, Columbus. Costlow, who was struck as he crossed the street with a pail of water, died yesterday of head and other injuries.

TAFT TOUR SAID 'CONTRIBUTION' TO GOP CAUSE

LAKE TAHOE, Nev., Sept. 22—Nevada GOP leaders said today that, win or lose in '48, Sen. Robert A. Taft, (R) O., has made a "contribution" to the cause of Republicanism by his stumping tour now moving into the Northwest.

Taft will inspect Shasta dam, across the state line in California, and enroute tonight for Seattle where his lieutenants expect him to face the "toughest" audience of his six-state speaking trip.

The senator will defend the Taft-Hartly labor law in his Wednesday Seattle address.

The consensus of Republican leaders in both California and Nevada was that the undeclared presidential candidate, in the first 12 days of his western engagement, has not swung any convention votes but has advanced his party's position.

The Ladies Aid and Service Circles of the First EUB Church will sponsor a fish dinner Friday, September 26th in community house. Serving 11 to 1:30 and 4:30 to 8:00. Price $1.00. Menu—Fried fish, scalloped potatoes, sliced potatoes, baked beans, coffee slaw, apple sauce, pie, coffee, iced tea.

COMPANY I MEN COMPETING IN GUARD CONTEST

Mayor Backs Recruiting
Drive Of Local Unit
Of 166th Infantry

Enlisted men of Company I, 166th Infantry Regiment, Ohio National Guard, are competing in a two-month recruiting contest that started on National Guard Day, September 16, to enlist a quota of 51 new members in the local unit and try for a state recruiting prize which will include an airplane trip to Washington and the Army-Navy football game, Capt. Jack Clifton, commanding officer, announced Monday.

Lt. C. W. Scott who is the recruiting officer for the 2nd and 3rd battalions of the 166th Infantry, said the local unit, which now comprises 36 men, will have 60 percent of its total authorized strength if this quota is attained.

In addition to basic privates, who will be trained in various specialties, Company I, will enlist World War II veterans in their highest wartime grades. Capt. Clifton said war veterans are particularly wanted to help in the training of younger Guardsmen.

STATE WINNER of the recruiting contest will be a guest of the War Department on the Washington trip. With other state winners he will visit the White House, be entertained at luncheons by Secretary of War Kenneth C. Royall and members of congress, tour the capital, attend a New York broadcast of National Guard assembly, the network radio program sponsored by the National Guard and starring Paul Whiteman, and attend the Army-Navy grid-iron clash in Philadelphia on November 29.

Capt. Clifton pointed out that men between the ages of 18 and 35 may enlist in the National Guard now and participate in the contest themselves. Company I meets every Tuesday at 7 p. m. at the Armory beside the fire station, and men interested in volunteering are urged to attend any weekly meeting.

BACKING THE recruiting drive here, Mayor Ben H. Gordon has issued a proclamation which states:

WHEREAS September Sixteenth was proclaimed by the President of the United States as National Guard Day, and as the opening day of a two-months campaign to recruit new members into this vital branch of our armed services, it becomes my privilege to announce that the City of Circleville endorses and supports observance of this day and of the recruiting campaign inaugurated by it, in order that our community and thus our homes might be further assured of security and safety through the true citizenship and services of our neighbors who are now members of our own National Guard Units, and of those who shall soon join their ranks. I call up on all in Circleville to further, in every way we can, the cause and strength of our local National Guard and, therefore, of the National Guard of the United States.

ASHVILLE

Ashville M Y F entertained members of the South Bloomfield M Y F at the Methodist church, Sunday evening.

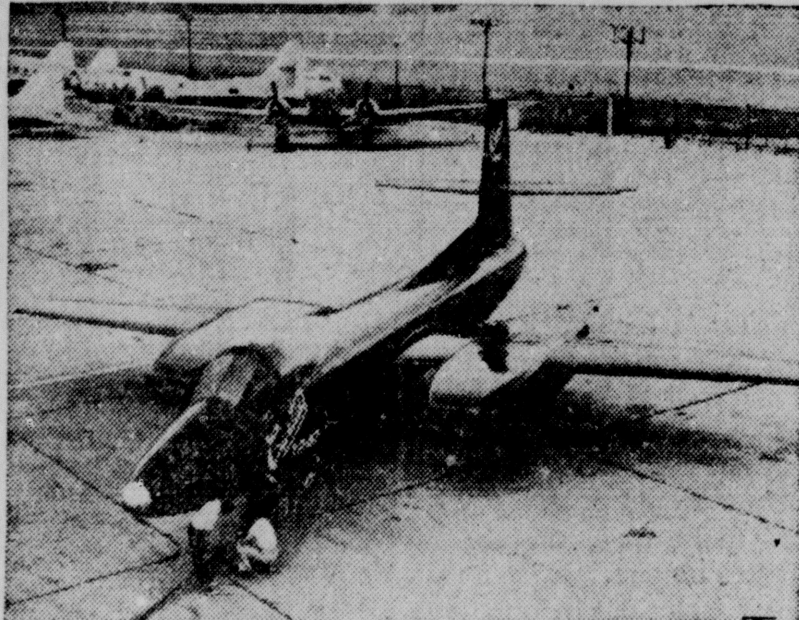

The Misses Mary Ann and Martha Jane Lewis were visitors Sunday at the Lutheran Sunday School.

For several years a number of Ashville families have been making Fall trips to the Ross-Hocking state park for picnic dinners. Those enjoying the trip Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Donald Rush, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Tosca, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Deal, Jr., Miss Virginia Baum, Mrs. Elsie Beckett, Byron Gulick, Romaine Wilson, Ronnie Wilson, Frederick Puckett, and David Deal, Ashville; Mrs. Joan Williams, Williamsport, and Miss Nancy Sensenbrenner, Circleville.

Mrs. Ellsworth Trego, who was stricken with polio about a week ago, is reported as making rapid recovery, and it is believed that she will suffer no ill effects from the disease. Mr. Trego, football coach at South high and former Scioto township and Capital University athlete, has been quarantined and has temporarily turned over his coaching duties to his assistants.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Green have purchased the Ora Hart home, now occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Roy Kitchen, on Poplar St. and expect to move there about September 1st. Mr. and Mrs.

Mrs. Weimer Perrill was hostess at a miscellaneous shower held in honor of Miss Wilma Smith Sunday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs.

Edward Reese, 225 N. Powell St.

Miss Violet McDowell, University of Cincinnati, and Miss Mary Swoyer, Christ Hospital, Cincinnati, visited their parents Saturday and Sunday.

Jerry Trego, Ohio University, Athens, spent the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Trego. Jerry is a freshman in the College of Commerce.

Charles William Fortner attended the Canal Winchester fall frolic Saturday evening.

Enough interest was taken in the Saturday night auction held in Ashville that plans are being made to hold another auction in the near future. Saturday's sale was sponsored by the Community Club. Gordon Perrill was the auctioneer.

While only a few entries were made in the Ashville corn show because of its last-hour planning, considerable interest was shown and next year's show should be equal to any held in the county. If held at an early date, it is planned to allow entrants to use corn from the preceding crop, thus assuring a show of highest quality.

The largest crowd to attend a baseball game in Ashville in the past score of years saw Ashville defeat Reynoldsburg 5 to 4 in a game in which all the early breaks went to the losers. Ashville hammered the offer.

ings of George Spencer, former Ohio State star and present property of the New York Giants, hard throughout the game although breaks held Ashville to two runs until the seventh.

How Deafened People Now Hear Clearly

Science has now made it possible for the deafened to hear faint sounds. It is a hearing device so small that it fits in the hand and enables thousands to enjoy sermons, music and friendly companionship. Accepted by the American Medical Association's Council on Physical Therapy. This device does not require separate battery pack, battery wire, case or garment to bulge or weigh you down. The tone is clear and powerful. So made that you can adjust it yourself to suit your hearing as your hearing changes. The makers of Beltone, Dept. 22 1450 West 19th St., Chicago 8, Ill., are so proud of their achievement that they will gladly send free descriptive booklet and explain how you may get a full demonstration of this remarkable hearing device in your own home without risking a penny. A vital message to young men on the new Army Technical School Plan

By now you may realize more than ever the value of specialized knowledge and training. But do you realize the opportunities for getting this training which are open to you in the Army's new Technical School Plan?

The Army maintains some of the finest technical schools in the world. Any qualified man now in the Army or who enters the Army and qualifies, may attend these schools. But today there is an especially fine educational offer made to high school graduates.

If you are 18 to 34 (17 with parents' consent) and have graduated from high school, you can now select your training course before you enlist in the Army!

You simply go to your U. S. Army and Air Force Recruiting Station and apply for the school of your choice. On this application blank you are given, first, the choice of two different fields of interest, such as electrical and radio, scientific-medical-technical, construction, etc. Second, you may select two specialty courses in each of these fields.

After your application blank is received, the Army will check to make sure there is an opening in one of the four courses you have selected and a place will be reserved for you in that course. Then you enlist for 3, 4 or 5 years and, after passing the mental and physical examinations and completing your basic training, you will be guaranteed training in your chosen course.

This is the greatest educational offer the Army has ever made. It's too good to pass up. Get all the information about it today at your U. S. Army and Air Force Recruiting Station.

The Cadets are Flying Again. Aviation Cadet Pilot Training is open to qualified, unmarried civilians between 20 and 26½ who have completed two years of college or the equivalent.

Enough interest was taken in the Saturday night auction held in Ashville that plans are being made to hold another auction in the near future. Saturday's sale was sponsored by the Community Club. Gordon Perrill was the auctioneer.

While only a few entries were made in the Ashville corn show because of its last-hour planning, considerable interest was shown and next year's show should be equal to any held in the county. If held at an early date, it is planned to allow entrants to use corn from the preceding crop, thus assuring a show of highest quality.

The largest crowd to attend a baseball game in Ashville in the past score of years saw Ashville defeat Reynoldsburg 5 to 4 in a game in which all the early breaks went to the losers. Ashville hammered the offerings of George Spencer, former Ohio State star and present property of the New York Giants, hard throughout the game although breaks held Ashville to two runs until the seventh.

How Deafened People Now Hear Clearly

Science has now made it possible for the deafened to hear faint sounds. It is a hearing device so small that it fits in the hand and enables thousands to enjoy sermons, music and friendly companionship. Accepted by the American Medical Association's Council on Physical Therapy. This device does not require separate battery pack, battery wire, case or garment to bulge or weigh you down. The tone is clear and powerful. So made that you can adjust it yourself to suit your hearing as your hearing changes. The makers of Beltone, Dept. 22 1450 West 19th St., Chicago 8, Ill., are so proud of their achievement that they will gladly send free descriptive booklet and explain how you may get a full demonstration of this remarkable hearing device in your own home without risking a penny. Write Beltone today.

A vital message to young men on the new Army Technical School Plan

By now you may realize more than ever the value of specialized knowledge and training. But do you realize the opportunities for getting this training which are open to you in the Army's new Technical School Plan?

The Army maintains some of the finest technical schools in the world. Any qualified man now in the Army or who enters the Army and qualifies, may attend these schools. But today there is an especially fine educational offer made to high school graduates.

If you are 18 to 34 (17 with parents' consent) and have graduated from high school, you can now select your training course before you enlist in the Army!

You simply go to your U. S. Army and Air Force Recruiting Station and apply for the school of your choice. On this application blank you are given, first, the choice of two different fields of interest, such as electrical and radio, scientific-medical-technical, construction, etc. Second, you may select two specialty courses in each of these fields.

After your application blank is received, the Army will check to make sure there is an opening in one of the four courses you have selected and a place will be reserved for you in that course. Then you enlist for 3, 4 or 5 years and, after passing the mental and physical examinations and completing your basic training, you will be guaranteed training in your chosen course.

This is the greatest educational offer the Army has ever made. It's too good to pass up. Get all the information about it today at your U. S. Army and Air Force Recruiting Station.

The Cadets are Flying Again. Aviation Cadet Pilot Training is open to qualified, unmarried civilians between 20 and 26½ who have completed two years of college or the equivalent.

PLEA FOR FAIRNESS

NEITHER landlords nor tenants should dominate rent advisory boards, says Frank R. Creedon, housing expediter. This might mean some changes in nominations submitted by governors, who may have yielded to pressure from one side or the other.

It would probably be going too far to expect the boards to be completely impartial. Nearly all persons have at one time or another been a landlord or a tenant, and frequently memories of the experiences have left a permanent leaning of opinion. Despite this the advisory groups can be fair, and they will be if they recognize the seriousness of the housing situation.

FORMER President Herbert Hoover's view that the war with Japan and Germany could have been averted had we shown a friendlier spirit sounds like a revival of the appeasement idea which most people hoped had been long since buried.

It is obvious now that Hitler plotted against us and pulled the willing Japanese along with him. No amount of friendliness would have altered his fundamental purpose, which was world dominion. It is surprising that Mr. Hoover should not have learned more from world events which followed his relinquishment of office in 1933.

Export Trade Drying Up
State Department Warns

Europe's Dollar Supply
Reaching Critical Level

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—Behind the gloomy statement by Acting Secretary of State Robert Lovett concerning Europe's mounting crisis was the hard, realistic fact recognized by many businessmen that export trade is rapidly drying up.

Lovett told newsmen that the European situation is due to come to a head faster than Allied planners had expected. However, it was left to the Commerce department to give businessmen the sad details about trends in export trade.

Shipments overseas during July were seven per cent below June and 19 per cent under the post-war high recorded in May. Behind this is the fact that Europe's supply of dollars is almost depleted and little short of the Marshall Plan or interim loans will help.

Europe would like to have the Marshall Plan in operation as soon as possible, but State department experts pessimistically contend that it couldn't be put into operation soon enough to head off the crisis in Europe's desperate plight.

THE U. S. CHAMBER OF COMMERCE is trying to help local businessmen find a way to diminish the number of crumpled fenders and ease the bad tempers caused by the nation's parking dilemma. At a business men's conference on urban problems planning officials and traffic engineers suggested through express highways, "open subway" freeways and modernized public transportation systems as possible solutions to the traffic jams that are "blighting" the central sections of many cities.

Acknowledging that those things cost money, and plenty of it, the experts went on to point out that such inexpensive practices as

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

General Eisenhower is having a tough time over his candidacy for the Republican nomination. He could make it easy for himself by announcing flatly that he is not a candidate and will not accept the nomination if offered. That would settle everything. Nobody has to be a candidate or even be considered to be one. All he needs to do is to declare himself out in language which no one will misunderstand.

But why should he do it? Certainly there is no reason why he should not accept the nomination, if offered, except that he is embarrassed by all the talk and the organization of Eisenhower Clubs and the support of Alf Landon and the "Kansas City Star" while he is Mr. Truman's chief of staff. It is not Hoyle for the chief of staff, while in office, to be running against his President. And Ike would apparently like to do it according to Hoyle or Emily Post or Lord Chesterfield's "Letters to His Son" or something equally correct and proper.

In fact, what Ike Eisenhower needs is a break. The reporters and political columnists should refer to him in the most laudatory terms, as he is deserving; they should give front page coverage to his many speeches; they should put excellent captions on his numerous photographs, including those showing him fishing; they should tie him up tightly with his prospective job as President of Columbia University. But they should under no circumstances ever refer to the utterly visible and painfully obvious efforts that are being made, undoubtedly against his wishes and without his consent, yet at no time unmistakably stopped by him, to make him the Republican candidate.

Such things do not happen. The bread and butter of a reporter is news. That Ike Eisenhower is a candidate for the Presidency is news. It is a fit subject for report, speculation and comment that he is a candidate while chief of staff. It has been news for more than a year. It has been news since he went down to Atlantic City to address the C. I. O. Convention and said things which may do him good or plague him as a politician. It is also a fit subject for speculation to wonder what Harry Truman will do to Ike Eisenhower. Or for that matter what Ike will do to Harry. It is Missouri against Kansas—an old feud in this nation.

For one thing, Truman must be combing through the files to discover just what responsibility Eisenhower bears for those events during and since the war for which the Republicans blame Roosevelt and Truman. That is the tough part of Eisenhower's situation. He can say that as a soldier he took orders. Undoubtedly, as a candidate, that is what he and his supporters will say. But the opponents will ask whether a man who takes orders against his conscience is fit to be President and also they will query as to whether he was responsible for misadvising his chiefs.

I know nothing about this at the moment. I am simply laying out the pattern of such a campaign. To offset Eisenhower's popularity, the opposition must destroy him from the record on the conduct of the war, on the agreement to delay our troops so that the Russians could come up and give the appearance of a conquering army, particularly as it affected General Patton's army, involving huge loss of life, and his

A Chronic Sinus Infection

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

CHRONIC infection of the sinuses, which are air chambers in the bones of the face, and connected with the nose, is a common disorder and one which is difficult to deal with.

Matters are even worse if the victim of sinus infection is also allergic, that is, over-sensitive to certain substances which are harmless to the great majority. In these cases, the infection in the sinuses or sinusitis seems to make the allergy a great deal worse. In some instances, it may actually cause allergic disorders to appear which were not present before.

Not Due To Hay Fever

Sinusitis is not a cause of hay fever, which is an allergic condition due, usually, to sensitivity to ragweed pollen, but it may be a factor in influencing the results of treatment. It has been noted that if the sinus condition gets worse during the hay fever condition, it will quite possibly tend to make the hay fever more severe.

Operative treatment of the sinus infection during the hay fever season usually should not be carried out. However, it is possible to wash out the infected sinus with some antiseptic solution, and this often may cause the hay fever symptoms to clear up rapidly. After the hay fever season is over, any surgical treatment necessary may be performed.

A Related Condition

A condition related to hay fever is known as vasomotor rhinitis. In vasomotor rhinitis, there is a nasal discharge, but it usually occurs the year round instead of during just the one special season.

Looking Back In Pickaway County

5 YEARS AGO

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Kellstadt, North Court street, received a cablegram from their son, Staff Sergeant William Kellstadt, who is stationed at a base over seas. He is with an anti-tank unit.

Saturday brings to a close a three-day celebration at the Eagles lodge. The celebration was planned to mark burning of a mortgage on the lodge's property.

Mrs. Felix Caldwell, South

Patients with this condition may be sensitive to foods, dust or pollen. Sinus infection may be a primary cause of vasomotor rhinitis, or it may just be a factor which tends to make the condition more severe. Benadryl is a helpful drug in treating vasomotor rhinitis.

It is possible that the patient may become sensitive to toxins or poisons formed by the germs in the sinuses. Again, in this disorder, during the active stage of the rhinitis, medical treatment such as the giving of vaccines and washing of the sinuses may first be carried out. However, in many instances, some surgical treatment of the sinuses may also be required.

Another Disorder

Another allergic disorder is known as urticaria or hives. Sinus infection may be a cause of urticaria. In most of these instances, operative treatment is also necessary to clear up the sinus infection and bring relief from the allergic disorder.

It would appear important in those with tendencies to allergy such as hives, asthma, eczema, hay fever, and vasomotor rhinitis, that careful study of the sinuses should not be neglected, since sinusitis may be the chief source of their trouble. Proper treatment of the sinus infection may result in the clearing up of the allergy or, at any rate, a real improvement.

PEGGY DERN

CHAPTER TWENTY-SIX

GAIL was whistling as she walked, and her heart was a dancing star. Two more weeks and the little house would be ready and she and Greg were going to be married in the living room of it. They were not going away on a honeymoon, because it would be silly, besides, it would be expensive, and Gail was learning that expensive things were not much fun, anyway.

She had reached the mailbox before she saw Norah. She stopped, startled, for Norah was huddled in a little heap, her face hidden against her arm, and she was sobbing as though her heart would break. Clutched in one outflung hand was a crumpled letter. Gail had only time to see that there was a printed letterhead, and that the letter had a businesslike look; and then Norah, as though sensing Gail's presence, rolled over, stumbled to her feet, and stared at Gail as though she hated her.

"Norah!" Gail gasped, shocked. But Norah brushed past her and went running, stumbling like one half-blind, back toward the house. Gail looked after her, dumfounded. And then she sighed and rubbed her hand over her forehead, as though to clear away the puzzle of Norah's behavior. It was all a part and parcel of the small, nagging mystery that had hung about Norah from the night Gail had heard her sobbing in her room.

There were several letters scattered on the grass, where Norah had evidently dropped them to open her own letter. Gail bent and picked them up. A business letter for Charles; a circular; a letter for Kate—and a plump well-filled envelope addressed to Gail in her mother's dashing scrawl, and adorned with a Mexican stamp.

Gail caught her breath. Had her letter announcing her engagement, reached her mother? She tucked the other letters into the pocket of her blue jeans and dropped down on the grass to read Lissa's letter. She could almost hear her mother's voice, warm and gay, with that characteristic breathless note that added its own charm.

Darling Pet:

Are you out of your mind, lamb? Married, indeed—and to one of those weird yokels you've been writing about? Darling, after all, that's going just a bit too far! I know I sent you down there to wangle a decent allowance from your father, and it's quite too bad of him to pretend to be so hard up that he can't do it; but after all, we can force him to, I think, without your doing anything so drastic! Heavens, lamb, I can't believe you would go that far! If you're drunk with Southern moonlight, and have any such weird ideas, for heaven's sake pack up and get away from there, fast! I simply will not hear of your making such a sacrifice. Honestly, lamb, I'm seriously alarmed for your sanity! The Dillingerhasts will have you!

I'm sure, and I shall be back in New York within another month—perhaps as Mrs. Martin Kincaid. It begins to look that way! Isn't that marvelous? He's really quite a pet, and I expect to be very happy! So run along to the Dillingerhasts, and I'll see you there soon.

Love, pet. LISSA.

There was a postscript:

These silly bills have been following me around until they're getting on my nerves. It would be utterly ruinous to all my plans if they dared to sue—as they threaten. So hand them over to Charles and tell him to pay them. He can call it my wedding present if he likes! And I'm sure he can afford them easily!

Gail sat very still, the letter in one hand, the little sheet of bills in the other. She had been so gay and happy, so at peace—and now she had the feeling of being jerked painfully back into that old, insecure world from which she felt she had escaped.

Her hands shook as she unfolded the bills in the dying light of the late afternoon. Fifty dollars for perfume; $85 for a hat; $33 for slippers; $340 for a dinner gown. Her eyes widened as she went through them and roughly totaled the amount—close to a thousand dollars! "These silly bills" her mother had called them! An amount that Greg had furiously refused to accept from Charles as a wedding gift because it would wipe out the entire account of the family. Money they had all worked hard to earn, and had denied themselves common comforts to save; money that was to be used to make the big old barn of a house comfortable and snug; money that Lissa would have considered as less than a month's spending allowance. Money that represented years of labor and patient savings.

Gail got to her feet and put both shaking hands to her white face. She could not possibly "hand them over to Charles," as Lissa had said of the bills "and tell him to pay them." Yet if she didn't the shop would undoubtedly sue Lissa, and Lissa's plan to marry Martin Kincaid would go smash. Lissa had always skated on thin ice, but she had managed not to go under; she had managed to avoid anything approaching a scandal. Yet if she were sued for the collection of such bills, that would be to Lissa, irreparable disgrace! Shame that would wreck her.

Lissa was so blithely confident that all Gail had to do was show Charles the bills. She did not—would not—believe the truth of Charles' circumstances; it was incomprehensible to her that he could be poor, that he could be living in what would seem to her unbearable squalor. Gail had carefully glossed over some of the hardships; she had not mentioned that there was no electricity, no water works; even more carefully she had concealed the fact that she had gone into the fields to help with the farm work. Sickly, she told herself now that she should have been brutally frank. She should have given her mother the unvarnished picture; should have made it painfully plain to her that she could never hope for any more help, financially, from Charles. But she had wanted to spare Lissa any worry about herself; she hadn't wanted Lissa's happiness marred by uneasiness about her daughter's well-being. And that would have resulted if Lissa had known exactly how things were at Twin Oaks.

It was growing dusk when at last Gail got to her feet and went back along the drive to the house. She shrank from meeting the others, and when she reached the house, she slipped up the stairs to her own room, leaving the mail for Charles and Kate on the hall table.

In her room, she walked up and down, beating her hands together helplessly, not conscious of the movement. What was she to do? What could she do? She had no money of her own—perhaps five or six dollars—and that, to Lissa, would scarcely be sufficient for a tea check. Lissa needed a thousand dollars, and unless she got it, there would be a scandal. In Lissa's eyes, it would be a terrible scandal that would wreck all her hopes and plans. Yet to go to Charles and show him the letter and the bills—Charles might pay the bills. Gail believed that he would. But no power on earth could make her do it.

She put her hand in her pocket for the letter, and stopped, shocked. For the letter wasn't there. She had thrust Kate's and Charles' mail into one pocket and she was quite sure she had put her mother's letter and the bills in the other. But, suddenly frantic lest she had dropped it on the table with Kate's and Charles' letters, she flew down the stairs to the hall. But no; her mother's letter was not there.

She stood still for a moment, going back in frantic memory to that shocked moment when she had dropped down on the grass to read the letter, remembering every movement—and the answer came to her. She had, of course, dropped the letter on the ground. It was still there; it had to be there, for no one else used that drive.

With the thought, she was out of the house and running down the drive, already shadowy with dusk. She reached the mailbox and looked carefully about her. Even though it was almost dark, the white glimmer of a dropped letter, the bills, would show up. She hunted desperately, with her heart hammering in her throat. She had to find it; she had to—before someone else did.

And as the thought struck her, a voice spoke from the tangled underbrush behind her and she whirled to see Greg rising from where he had been sitting behind a low bush.

You are loving and lovable; gentle and attractive, a favorite among your friends and popular with everyone. Your birthday influences are doubtful, yet there may be satisfactory news or completion. Your next year is indicative of keen disappointment through lover, spouse, relatives or friends, although some financial gain will eventuate. Defer marriage and domestic changes. Born today a child will be moderately successful in business, but liable to suffer through deception of loved ones. Friends will need to be carefully chosen.

One-Minute Test Answers

1. The Sierra Nevada range is in California; Sierra Madre is the chief mountain range of Mexico; and Sierra Leone is a British colony in West Africa.
2. Wedgwood is a type of china originated in England; Dresden is from Germany, and Delft is from Holland.
3. The Antarctic zone and the Antarctic circle.

For one thing, Truman must be combing through the files to discover just what responsibility Eisenhower bears for those events during and since the war for which the Republicans blame Roosevelt and Truman. That is the tough part of Eisenhower's situation. He can say that as a soldier he took orders. Undoubtedly, as a candidate, that is what he and his supporters will say. But the opponents will ask whether a man who takes orders against his conscience is fit to be President and also they will query as to whether he was responsible for misadvising his chiefs.

I know nothing about this at the moment. I am simply laying out the pattern of such a campaign. To offset Eisenhower's popularity, the opposition must destroy him from the record on the conduct of the war, on the agreement to delay our troops so that the Russians could come up and give the appearance of a conquering army, particularly as it affected General Patton's army, involving huge loss of life, and his

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

CHRONIC infection of the sinuses, which are air chambers in the bones of the face, and connected with the nose, is a common disorder and one which is difficult to deal with.

Matters are even worse if the victim of sinus infection is also allergic, that is, over-sensitive to certain substances which are harmless to the great majority. In these cases, the infection in the sinuses or sinusitis seems to make the allergy a great deal worse. In some instances, it may actually cause allergic disorders to appear which were not present before.

Not Due To Hay Fever

Sinusitis is not a case of hay fever, which is an allergic condition due, usually, to sensitivity to ragweed pollen, but it may be a factor in influencing the results of treatment. It has been noted that if the sinus condition gets worse during the hay fever condition, it will quite possibly tend to make the hay fever more severe.

Operative treatment of the sinus infection during the hay fever season usually should not be carried out. However, it is possible to wash out the infected sinus with some antiseptic solution, and this often may cause the hay fever symptoms to clear up rapidly. After the hay fever season is over, any surgical treatment necessary may be performed.

A Related Condition

A condition related to hay fever is known as vasomotor rhinitis. There is a nasal discharge, but it usually occurs the year round instead of during just the one special season.

Mrs. Felix Caldwell, South

Patients with this condition may be sensitive to foods, dust or pollen. Sinus infection may be a primary cause of vasomotor rhinitis, or it may just be a factor which tends to make the condition more severe. Benadryl is a helpful drug in treating vasomotor rhinitis.

It is possible that the patient may become sensitive to toxins or poisons formed by the germs in the sinus. Again, in this disorder, during the active stage of the rhinitis, medical treatment such as the giving of vaccines and washing of the sinuses may first be carried out. However, in many instances, some surgical treatment of the sinus may also be required.

Another Disorder

Another allergic disorder is known as urticaria or hives. Sinus infection may be a cause of urticaria. In most of these instances, operative treatment is also necessary to clear up the sinus infection and bring relief from the allergic disorder.

It would appear important in those with tendencies to allergy such as hives, asthma, eczema, hay fever, and vasomotor rhinitis, that careful study of the sinuses should not be neglected, since sinusitis may be the chief source of their trouble. Proper treatment of the sinus infection may result in the clearing up of the allergy or, at any rate, a real improvement.

PEGGY DERN

CHAPTER TWENTY-SIX

GAIL was whistling as she walked, and her heart was a dancing star. Two more weeks and the little house would be ready and she and Greg were going to be married in the living room of it. They were not going away on a honeymoon, because it would be silly; besides, it would be expensive, and Gail was learning that expensive things were not much fun, anyway.

She had reached the mailbox before she saw Nora. She stopped, startled, for Nora was huddled in a little heap, her face hidden against her arm, and she was sobbing as though her heart would break. Clutched in one outflung hand was a crumpled letter. Gail had only time to see that there was a printed letterhead, and that the letter had a businesslike look; and then Nora, as though sensing Gail's presence, rolled over, stumbled to her feet, and stared at Gail as though she hated her.

"Nora!" Gail gasped, shocked. But Nora brushed past her and went running, stumbling like one half-blind, back toward the house.

Gail looked after her, dumfounded. And then she sighed and rubbed her hand over her forehead, as though to clear away the puzzle of Nora's behavior. It was all a part and parcel of the small, nagging mystery that had hung about Nora from the night Gail had heard her sobbing in her room. There were several letters scattered on the grass, where Nora had evidently dropped them to open her own letter. Gail bent and picked them up. A business letter for Charles; a circular; a letter for Kate—and a plump well-filled envelope addressed to Gail in her mother's dashing scrawl, and adorned with a Mexican stamp.

Gail caught her breath. Had her letter announcing her engagement, reached her mother? She tucked the other letters into the pocket of her blue jeans and dropped down on the grass to read Lissa's letter. She could almost hear her mother's voice, warm and gay, with that characteristic breathless note that added its own charm.

Darling Pet:

Are you out of your mind, lamb? Married, indeed—and to one of those weird yokels you've been writing about? Darling, after all, that's going just a bit too far! I know I sent you down there to wangle a decent allowance from your father, and it's quite too bad of him to pretend to be so hard up that he can't do it; but after all, we can force him to, I think, without your doing anything so drastic! Heavens, lamb, don't believe you would go that far! If you're drunk with Southern moonlight, and have any such weird ideas, for heaven's sake pack up and get away from there, fast! I simply will not hear of your making such a sacrifice. Honestly, lamb, I'm seriously alarmed for your sanity! The Dillinghams will have you!

Lissa was so blithely confident that all Gail had to do was show Charles the bills. She did not—would not—believe the truth of Charles' circumstances; it was incomprehensible to her that he could be poor, that he could be living in what would seem to her unbecoming squalor. Gail had carefully glossed over some of the hardships; she had not mentioned that there was no electricity, no water works; even more carefully she had concealed the fact that

I'm sure, and I shall be back in New York within another month—perhaps as Mrs. Martin Kincaid. It begins to look that way! Isn't that marvelous? He's really quite a pet, and I expect to be very happy! So run along to the Dillinghams, and I'll see you there soon.

Love, pet, LISSA.

There was a postscript:

These silly bills have been following me around until they're getting on my nerves. It would be utterly ruinous to all my plans if they dared to sue—as they threaten. So hand them over to Charles and tell him to pay them. He can call it my wedding present if he likes! And I'm sure he can afford them easily!

Gail sat very still, the letter in one hand, the little sheet of bills in the other. She had been so gay and happy, so at peace—and now she had the feeling of being jerked painfully back into that old, insecure world from which she felt she had escaped.

Her hands shook as she unfolded the bills in the dying light of the late afternoon. Fifty dollars for perfume; $55 for a hat; $33 for slippers; $40 for a dinner gown. Her eyes widened as she went through them, and roughly totaled the amount—close to a thousand dollars! "These silly bills" her mother had called them! An amount that Greg had furiously refused to accept from Charles as a wedding gift because it would wipe out the entire account of the family. Money they had all worked hard to earn, and had denied themselves common comforts to save; money that was to be used to make the big old barn of a house comfortable and snug; money that Lissa would have considered as less than a monthly spending allowance. Money that represented years of labor and patient savings.

Gail got to her feet and put both shaking hands to her white face. She could not possibly "hand them over to Charles," as Lissa had said of the bills "and tell him to pay them." Yet if she didn't the shop would undoubtedly sue Lissa, and Lissa's plan to marry Martin Kincaid would go smash. Lissa had always skated on thin ice, but she had managed not to go under; she had managed to avoid anything approaching a scandal. Yet if she were sued for the collection of such bills, that would be to Lissa, irreparable disgrace! Shame that would wreck her.

Lissa was so blithely confident that all Gail had to do was show Charles the bills. She did not—would not—believe the truth of Charles' circumstances; it was incomprehensible to her that he could be poor, that he could be living in what would seem to her unbecoming squalor. Gail had carefully glossed over some of the hardships; she had not mentioned that there was no electricity, no water works; even more carefully she had concealed the fact that

She stood still for a moment, going back in frantic memory to that shocked moment when she had dropped down on the grass to read the letter, remembering every movement—and the answer came to her. She had, of course, dropped the letter on the ground. It was still there; it had to be there, for no one else used that drive.

With the thought, she was out of the house and running down the drive, already shadowy with dusk. She reached the mailbox and looked carefully about her. Even though it was almost dark, the white glimmer of a dropped letter, the bills, would show up. She hunted desperately with her heart hammering in her throat. She had to find it; she had to—before someone else did.

And as she thought struck her, a voice spoke from the tangled underbrush behind her and she whirled to see Greg rising from where he had been sitting behind a low bush.

One-Minute Test
1. Can you distinguish between Sierra Madre, Sierra Nevada and Sierra Leone?
2. With what countries do you associate Wedgwood, Dresden, and Delft?
3. In what zone and just above or below what circle are the Ross Sea and the Weddell Sea?

Words of Wisdom
A wise physician, skilled our ills to heal, is more than armies to the public weal.—Pope.

Today's Horoscope
You are a dreamer, have a vivid imagination, make elaborate plans, which you never carry out. You should cultivate self-reliance, perseverance and foresight. You are loving and lovable; gentle and attractive, a favorite among your friends and popular with everyone. Your birthday influences are doubtful, yet there may be satisfactory news or completion. Your next year is indicative of keen disappointment through lover, spouse, relatives or friends, although some financial gain will eventuate. Defer marriage and domestic changes. Born today a child will be moderately successful in business, but liable to suffer through deception of loved ones. Friends will need to be carefully chosen.

Hints on Etiquette

One-Minute Test Answers

1. The Sierra Nevada range is in California; Sierra Madre is the chief mountain range of Mexico; and Sierra Leone is a British colony in West Africa.
2. Wedgwood is a type of china originated in England; Dresden is from Germany, and Delft is from Holland.
3. The Antarctic zone and the Antarctic circle.

Export Trade Drying Up
State Department Warns

Europe's Dollar Supply
Reaching Critical Level

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—Behind the gloomy statement by Acting Secretary of State Robert Lovett concerning Europe's mounting crisis was the hard, realistic fact recognized by many businessmen that export trade is rapidly drying up.

Lovett told newsmen that the European situation is due to come to a head faster than Allied planners had expected. However, it was left to the Commerce department to give businessmen the sad details about trends in export trade.

Shipments overseas during July were seven per cent below June and 19 per cent under the post-war high recorded in May. Behind this is the fact that Europe's supply of dollars is almost depleted and little short of the Marshall Plan or interim loans will help.

Europe would like to have the Marshall Plan in operation as soon as possible, but State department experts pessimistically contend that it couldn't be put into operation soon enough to head off the crisis in Europe's desperate plight.

THE U. S. CHAMBER OF COMMERCE is trying to help local businessmen find a way to diminish the number of crumpled fenders and ease the bad tempers caused by the nation's parking dilemma. At a business men's conference on urban problems planning officials and traffic engineers suggested through express highways, "open subway" freeways and modernized public transportation systems as possible solutions to the traffic jams that are "blighting" the central sections of many cities.

Acknowledging that those things cost money, and plenty of it, the experts went on to point out that such inexpensive practices as synchronizing traffic lights, one-way streets and parking bans during busy hours could do much to keep traffic on the move.

The conference pledged itself to "mobilize public opinion" into accepting modern traffic solutions.

DEMOCRATIC LEADERS and labor chiefs are blaming each other for the intense ballyhoo that preceded the Republican victory in Pennsylvania's eighth congressional district race.

The campaign between Republican candidate Franklin Lichtenwalter and the labor-backed Democrat, Phil Storch, had been labeled a "testing ground" for ballot box reaction to the Taft-Hartley law.

Labor went all out to consolidate its front in Allentown, which is center of the district and a so-called "typical American community." Then after the shooting was over, Lichtenwalter had won over Storch by more than 17,000 votes.

The Republicans, naturally, gleefully accepted PAC and Democratic claims that Pennsylvania's eighth was a "testing ground" and unleashed a withering political barrage. They claimed the vote showed public support for the Taft-Hartley law.

Too late, observers agree, Democratic Executive Chairman Gael Sullivan fired back with the reminder that the district was normally a Republican one.

The PAC-Democratic publicity buildup backfired at a critical time in pre-convention hurly-burly, and chiefs of the two organizations are trying to fix the blame. The adverse results of the publicity are being likened to those which followed the late Wendell Willkie's defeat in 1944 in the Wisconsin primaries.

CATTLE SLAUGHTER IN MEXICO—Agriculture department officials in Washington report that the all-out campaign to eradicate the dread hoof and mouth disease in Mexican cattle has hit some of the finest herds in Mexico.

United States and Mexican officials are cooperating to wipe out the disease south of the border before it spreads into the United States.

One Mexican herd, composed of 270 registered and grade animals was the most productive dairy unit in the republic. Although many of the cows had won exhibition prizes in national and international competition, the dread disease struck them and they had to be wiped out.

Miss Mable Woodard Bride Of Ned C. Stout

Ceremony Read In
First Methodist Church Here

First Methodist church was decorated Saturday evening, for the wedding of Miss Mable Gertrude Woodard and Ned Calvin Stout, in an array of white chrysanthemums, white gladiolus, myrtle, silver lace vines and white candelabra entwined in greenery. The Rev. Neil H. Peterson, Cincinnati, officiated at the nuptial ceremony at half after eight o'clock.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William N. Woodard, San Angelo, Texas, while Mr. Stout is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wellington H. Stout, East Mound street.

Given in marriage by John O. Smith, Winchester, the bride approached the altar through an aisle where each pew was marked with white ribbon bows and sprays of white asters.

She chose for her wedding a white slipper satin gown. The lines were enhanced by a yoke of Chantilly lace with self covered buttons up the front of the long torso bodice and long sleeves coming to points over the hands. The full gored skirt swept into a cathedral train. Her Juliet cap of Chantilly lace, from which fell a finger tip veil of sheerest imported illusion, was held in place by a coronet of pearlized orange blossoms. She carried a colonial bouquet of gardenias and double tube roses, and wore a six-pence, brought from Australia by Mrs. Jack Withrow, Amanda, in her ballerina slippers.

Mrs. Withrow, formerly of Melbourne, Australia, was matron of honor in a gown of aqua satin, fashioned identically to that worn by the bride. She wore a matching Juliet cap of net and satin and carried an old fashioned bouquet centered with a yellow dahlia.

Bridesmaid was Miss Ruth Stout, East Mound street, sister of the bridegroom. She wore a lilac satin gown and corresponding Juliet cap, made on similar lines to the matron of honor's gown. An orchid dahlia centered her colonial bouquet. Both attendants wore silver sequin chokers, gifts from the bride.

Glenn W. Barnhart, Circleville, attended Mr. Stout as best man. Seating the guests were Charles F. Webb Jr., William E. Ebert, and Robert M. Sprouse, Circleville.

Period of pre-nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Ralph Smith and Miss Ruth Blum, Cincinnati. Their selections included "Long Ago and Far Away," "I Love You Truly" and "The Lord's Prayer."

A reception at the Pickaway Arms followed the ceremony. Refreshments were served before a background of lighted tapers, varied autumn flowers and greenery. A large wedding cake centered the bride's table flanked by tall white tapers surrounded with maiden hair fern. Punch was served from a side table decorated in greenery.

Mrs. Stout selected for her son's wedding a royal blue crepe dress trimmed in sequins. She pinned a corsage of white rosebuds at her shoulder.

A beige wool suit with corresponding hat and black accessories was worn by the new Mrs. Stout when they left on their wedding trip.

The bride was graduated from San Angelo high school and attended San Angelo Junior College. She is affiliated with Sigma Alpha Chi sorority. Mr. Stout was graduated from Circleville

Miss Hamilton Weds Richard C. Raeuchle

Of interest to many Circleville and Pickaway county residents was the wedding on Sunday when Miss Naomi Hamilton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Hamilton, route 4, Springfield, became the bride of Richard Raeuchle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chris Raeuchle, route 4, Springfield.

The wedding took place at 2 o'clock in the Second Christ and Christian Union Church, at Springfield, with the Rev. F. N. Shoemaker officiating. A reception followed the ceremony and later the couple left on a wedding trip through the Smoky Mountains and the Carolinas.

The bride chose for her wedding a beige tailored suit with accessories of dark brown and a bouquet of gardenias, pom-poms and yellow rosebuds.

Miss Matilda Blanton, Corbin, Kentucky, was maid of honor. William Raeuchle, Springfield, attended his brother as best man. Robert Hamilton, route 1, Mt. Sterling, brother of the bride seated the guests.

The new Mrs. Raeuchle was graduated from Monroe township high school at Five Points and attended Nolan Business College, Springfield. Mr. Raeuchle was graduated from Catawba high school and served five years in the United States Army during World War II. He is associated with the Hay and Murphy Construction company, Springfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Raeuchle now is attending State University, Columbus, where he is majoring in radio broadcasting. He is affiliated with Prop and Wing fraternity of the Air R.O.T.C. During World War II, he served with the United States Army Air forces.

When they return from their trip they will make their home at 25 North 22nd street, Columbus.

Among the out of town guests at the wedding and reception were: Colonel Richard Walker, Mrs. Walker, Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Waltman, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Toso, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Harlow, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pryn, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Williams, Mr. and Mrs. William Burgett and Major William Campbell and Mrs. Campbell, Columbus.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Howe, Portsmouth, Miss Ruth Blum, the Rev. Mr. Peterson and Mrs. Peterson, Cincinnati; John O. Smith, Winchester; Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Johnson, Johnstown, and Miss Flo Wollenweber, Chillicothe.

AMERICAN LEGION DANCE "Four Jacks and Jill," Columbus combo, filled a return engagement Saturday evening in the American Legion home. The weekly dance was well attended by Legionnaires and their ladies.

Willing Workers Members Hear Talk By Mrs. Mitchell

Mrs. Donald E. Mitchell, Circleville, was guest speaker when members of the Willing Workers Sunday school class of Pontius Evangelical United Brethren church met in the home of Mrs. Sterley Croman, route 4.

Mrs. Larry Goodman read from the Scriptures and a selection "Be Careful Tongue". The group sang, "I Need Thee Every Hour" and "I Would Be Like Jesus". Roll call found 19 members and guests present. Mrs. Croman lead a roundtable discussion as the group worked out a project to assist with relief for European countries. Mrs. Forest Croman was chairman of the afternoon's program. She sponsored a map of the United States contest.

Hostess invited the group to the diningroom where refreshments were served from an attractively appointed tea table. Next meeting will be the third Thursday in October at the home of Mrs. R. E. Bowman, East Franklin street.

Her Juliet cap of Chantilly lace, from which fell a finger tip veil of sheerest imported illusion, was held in place by a coronet of pearlized orange blossoms. She carried a colonial bouquet of gardenias and double tube roses, and wore a six-pence, brought from Australia by Mrs. Jack Withrow. Amanda, in her ballerina slippers.

Mrs. Withrow, formerly of Melbourne, Australia, was matron of honor in a gown of aqua satin, fashioned identically to that worn by the bride. She wore a matching Juliet cap of net and satin and carried an old fashioned bouquet centered with a yellow dahlia.

Bridesmaid was Miss Ruth Stout, East Mound street, sister of the bridegroom. She wore a lilac satin gown and corresponding Juliet cap, made on similar lines to the matron of honor's gown. An orchid dahlia centered her colonial bouquet. Both attendants wore silver sequin chokers, gifts from the bride.

Glenn W. Barnhart, Circleville, attended Mr. Stout as best man. Seating the guests were Charles F. Webb Jr., William E. Ebert, and Robert M. Sprouse, Circleville.

Period of pre-nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Ralph Smith and Miss Ruth Blum, Cincinnati. Their selections included "Long Ago and Far Away," "I Love You Truly" and "The Lord's Prayer."

A reception at the Pickaway Arms followed the ceremony. Refreshments were served before a background of lighted tapers, varied autumn flowers and greenery. A large wedding cake centered the bride's table flanked by tall white tapers surrounded with maiden hair fern. Punch was served from a side table decorated in greenery.

Mrs. Stout selected for her son's wedding a royal blue crepe dress trimmed in sequins. She pinned a corsage of white rosebuds at her shoulder.

A beige wool suit with corresponding hat and black accessories was worn by the new Mrs. Stout when they left on their wedding trip.

The bride was graduated from San Angelo high school and attended San Angelo Junior College. She is affiliated with Sigma Alpha Chi sorority. Mr. Stout was graduated from Circleville

Miss Hamilton Weds
Richard C. Raeuchle

Of interest to many Circleville and Pickaway county residents was the wedding on Sunday when Miss Naomi Hamilton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Hamilton, route 4, Springfield, became the bride of Richard Raeuchle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chris Raeuchle, route 4, Springfield.

The wedding took place at 2 o'clock in the Second Christ and Christian Union Church, at Springfield, with the Rev. F. N. Shoemaker officiating. A reception followed the ceremony and later the couple left on a wedding trip through the Smoky Mountains and the Carolinas.

The bride chose for her wedding a beige tailored suit with accessories of dark brown and a bouquet of gardenias, pom-poms and yellow rosebuds.

Miss Matilda Blanton, Corbin, Kentucky, was maid of honor. William Raeuchle, Springfield, attended his brother as best man. Robert Hamilton, route 1, Mt. Sterling, brother of the bride seated the guests.

The new Mrs. Raeuchle was graduated from Monroe township high school at Five Points and attended Nolan Business College, Springfield. Mr. Raeuchle was graduated from Catawba high school and served five years in the United States Army during World War II. He is associated with the Hay and Murphy Construction company, Springfield.

After school and now is attending State University, Columbus, where he is majoring in radio broadcasting. He is affiliated with Prop and Wing fraternity of the Air R.O.T.C. During World War II, he served with the United States Army Air forces.

When they return from their trip they will make their home at 25 North 22nd street, Columbus.

Among the out of town guests at the wedding and reception were: Colonel Richard Walker, Mrs. Walker, Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Waltman, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Toso, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Harlow, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pryn, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Williams, Mr. and Mrs. William Burgett and Major William Campbell and Mrs. Campbell, Columbus.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Howe, Portsmouth, Miss Ruth Blum, the Rev. Mr. Peterson and Mrs. Peterson, Cincinnati; John O. Smith, Winchester; Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Johnson, Johnstown, and Miss Flo Wollenweber, Chillicothe.

A reception at the Pickaway Arms followed the ceremony. Refreshments were served before a background of lighted tapers, varied autumn flowers and greenery. 'INDIAN LIFE'
TOPIC AT DAC
MEETING HERE

Colonel William, Ball chapter, Daughters of the American Colonists met Saturday at noon at the Pickaway Arms, for luncheon with Miss Dhele Renick, and Mrs. W. O. Jones Columbus, hostesses.

After luncheon the regular meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Helen Gunning, East Main street. Twenty members and guests were present. Mrs. O. W. Finley, Mt. Sterling, regent, presided.

Miss Valleria Bostwick presented an interesting account of the "Indian Life Before The Colonists Came" the period being about 1564-1587.

The members discussed the placing of a monument (or boulder) on route 277 near the location formerly called "Yankeeetown." This is to be a memorial with the names of the men who served in the armed forces during the last war. The names of the men will be inscribed on the marker.

Next meeting, the last for this year, will be held on October 18th in London, at the home of Mrs. Jesse Chance.

Guests at the meeting were Mrs. Elizabeth Lewis, West Palm Beach, Florida; Mrs. Wolfred F. Henkle, Chicago, Illinois, and Mrs. Gunning and her daughter, Miss Emily Gunning.

ASHVILLE REDS WIN 5 TO 4 AS SERIES OPENS

Ankrom Leads 11-Hit Attack
On George Spencer
Of Reynoldsburg

Ashville Reds won a hard-fought 5-4 game from Reynoldsburg Sunday as the "Little Buckeye series" opened in Ashville Community park before a record crowd.

The Reds outthrew the capital city champs 11-8. "Snap" Ankrom taught George Spencer, who is property of the New York Giants, to be careful with his fast ball. With two out in the first inning Ankrom hit the first pitch on the road by the waterworks for a home run. Later he added a double.

THE HOMER gave the Reds a lead which lasted only until the top of the second when Gerlach and Streng singled, both advanced on Wood's sacrifice and Gerlach scored as Purpera forced Streng.

The SCO champs again stepped ahead in the last of the second. Glen Belcher doubled. J. Gregg sacrificed but Belcher was trapped between second and third. Bob Harper singled Gregg to third. Harper stole second and when the catcher threw the ball into centerfield Gregg scored.

In the top of the third Reynoldsburg went ahead with two runs. Louthen and Russell singled. Knox was safe on Ankrom's error. Louthen scoring. Gerlach was safe on Belcher's error. Russell scoring.

From then until the last of the seventh Spencer and Mark Wylie, who went all the way for the Reds, matched zeros.

In the home half of the "stretch" frame Bob Tracey singled and stole second. Ankrom doubled but Tracey stopped at third. Wally Noon was purposely missed, filling the bases. Harold Gulick singled scored Tracey and Ankrom. Noon reaching third. Belcher forced Gulick. Noon scoring.

Reynoldsburg picked another run in the eighth when Lett singled and Streng tripled for the longest hit off Wylie.

The series will be continued next Sunday at the State Hospital field in Columbus.

BUCKS START LAST WEEK OF GRID PRACTICE

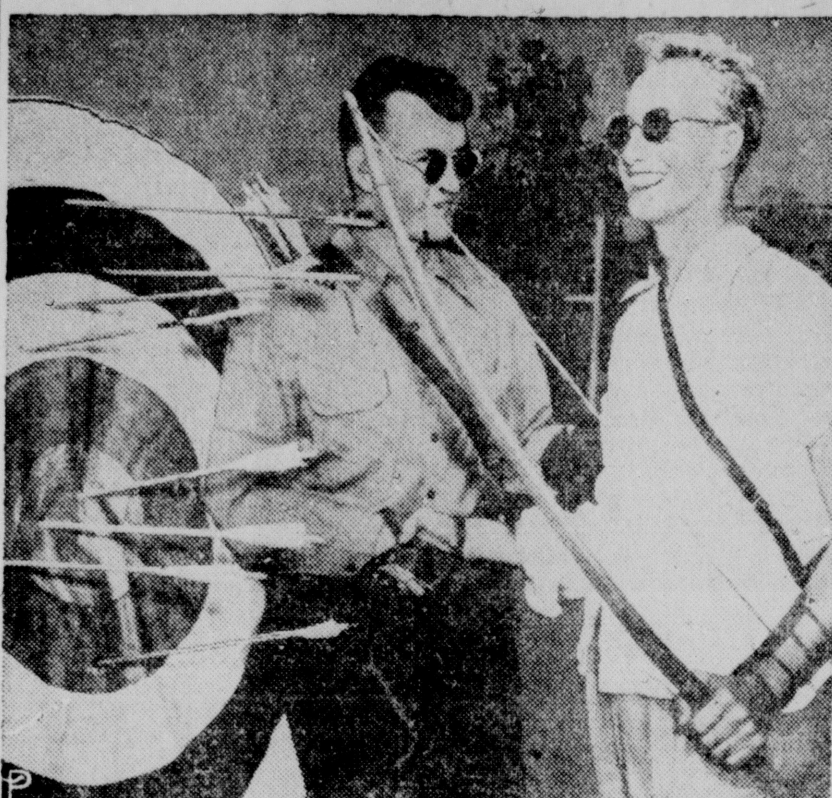

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 22—Ohio State entered the last week of its pre-season preparations today convinced it had a tough assignment ahead in its opener with Missouri Saturday.

The Tigers easily defeated St. Louis, 19 to 0, last weekend with the cagey veteran, Don Faurot, keeping his varsity under wraps.

Dick Fisher and Esco Sarkkinen, who scouted the Tigers for Ohio State, had plenty to report to their boss, Wesley Fesler, when they huddled with him today.

Meanwhile, Fesler spent last Saturday sending his charges through a dress rehearsal against the third and fourth teams in Ohio stadium. The red-clad varsity piled up a 45-to-0 score with fullbacks Joe

High School Football Powerhouses Off Again

By International News Service

Toledo Waite, acclaimed as mythical state schoolboy football champion for the past two seasons, is on the march again.

The Indians lost such kingpins as All-Ohioms Elmer Scallish and Bill Gregus; more important, their longtime coach, Jack Mollenkopf, departed to become an assistant to St. Holcomb at Purdue University.

Nevertheless, with huge Frank Pauley at the helm, the Indians have opened 1947 with two straight victories. The second in a row was a 20-to-0 beating administered to Toledo Woodward Saturday night.

Cleveland Cathedral Latin, principal challenger to Waite in both 1945 and 1946, ran its string of successive games without a defeat to 35 with a lopsided 51-to-12 decision over Cleveland St. Ignatius.

AT LEAST four other 1946 "Big Ten" teams already have stamped themselves as contenders this season.

Toledo Libbey and Mansfield both made it two victories this year as they won their weekend games with ease. Libbey conked Toledo Central Catholic, 26 to 13, while Augie Morningstar's sophomore Mansfield Tigers dominated Cleveland East, 28 to 6.

Canton McKinley opened its season with an impressive 32-to-10 trouncing of Cleveland Lincoln. Massillon had a more difficult time in getting by Revere, Mass., 7 to 6.

OTHER TEAMS around the state that added their second straight 1947 victories included Middletown, Fremont Ross, Columbus West, Salem, Barborton and Alliance.

Columbus West thoroughly manhandled Upper Arlington, one of last year's unbeaten clubs, 40 to 0, after beating Springfield a week earlier. Middletown walloped traditionally rugged Newark, 39 to 7; Fremont Ross rolled up a 20-to-6 win over Ashland; Barborton flattened Akron South, 26 to 0, and Whisler and Ollie Cline tallying all but one of the touchdowns.

Whisler bulled over for four scores, never from more than four yards out. Cline scored twice, once on a 12-yard dash from scrimmage and again after intercepting a pass on the 42.

Halfback Bob Demmel went five yards around end for the last touchdown.

Fesler directed the practice, with the aid of an electric megaphone, from the stadium's "C" deck. When it was all over, he found room for satisfaction with the club's defensive play but called the offense "ragged."

DODGERS STILL TRYING TO SEW UP NL PENNANT

Boston Stops Brooklyn 9
Again; Blackwell Gets His 22nd Win

NEW YORK, Sept. 22 — The Brooklyn Dodgers, who could have clinched the National League pennant as long ago as last Thursday by beating the Pirates in Pittsburgh that day, now may not nail the flag to the mast until tomorrow.

The faltering Flatbushers are not scheduled until tomorrow's game with the New York Giants, but can back into the pennant if the second-place St. Louis Cardinals lose to the Chicago Cubs either this afternoon or tonight.

The Cards, who still retain a mathematical chance to finish in a tie with Brooklyn, rescheduled yesterday's washed-out contest with the Cubs for this afternoon, in addition to tonight's regularly scheduled contest.

BOSTON PITCHERS seeking their 20th win of the season have tripped up the impending champions for two successive days. Johnny Sain's No. 20 handcuffed the Brooks Saturday and Warren Spahn's 20th stopped them yesterday, 4 to 0. As a result, the Braves boast two 20-game winners in one season for the first time since Lou Fette and Jim Turner accomplished the feat in 1937.

Spahn held the Dodgers to six hits and bested their ace hurler, Ralph Branca, who yielded all four Boston runs in seven innings on the mound.

Regardless of when they get around to clinching the pennant, the battered Brooks are looking like anything but champs these days. They made five errors Saturday and looked silly again yesterday when the Braves pulled a double steal on them twice in one inning.

WHILE THE Dodgers falter and dawdle, the outlook for the National League in the World Series is becoming gloomier rapidly. The New York Yankees, new champs of the American League, now have four pitchers in top shape for the classic, whereas they had only one a few days ago.

Floyd Bevens yesterday held the Athletics to three hits and blanked them, 6 to 0. He proved he will be an able assistant to Frank Shea, Bobo Newsom and Allie Reynolds, who has Bev's top performance of the year.

Only solace for the senior circuit is that it has five 20-game winners this year, as against none for the American Cleveland, defending champion, was the only undefeated team in the All-American Football Conference today.

The champions took sole possession of first place in the circuit's western division Sunday by swamping the Baltimore Colts, 28 to 0, before 44,287 at Cleveland for their third straight triumph. San Francisco's 49ers, erstwhile leaders of the division with three straight wins, suffered their first defeat of the campaign when they lost a 21-to-16 decision to the New York Yankees.

The Yankees advanced to a tie with the idle Buffalo Bills for first place in the eastern division.

The Rival National Football League inaugurated its season with one game, in which the Pittsburgh Steelers twice came from behind to beat the Detroit Lions and their former teammate, Bullet Bill Dudley, 17 to 10, before an overflow crowd of 36,374 at Pittsburgh.

A third-quarter "break" in which tackle Joe Repko scooped up a fumble and raced 60 yards for a touchdown, proved the margin of victory in this tough battle.

League. The five are Ewell Blackwell, Branca, Sain, Spahn and Larry Jansen, brilliant freshman of the New York Giants who got his 20th yesterday by beating the Phillies, 6 to 4, in the second game of a twin bill.

THE GIANTS, by collecting three homers, stretched two of their home run records. They have hit for the circuit in 18 consecutive games and boast the astronomical total of 217 for the season.

Home runs accounted for all runs scored as the Giants lost the opener to the Phils, 3 to 2. Gilbert and Ennis hit homers for the Phillies, the latter's circuit clout winning the game in the 11th inning.

Cincinnati's Blackwell became the "winningest" pitcher in the majors when he racked up his 22nd victory by beating Pittsburgh, 3 to 1. Darkness halted the nightcap after eight innings with the Pirates winning, 11 to 7.

The Boston Red Sox yielded second place in the American League to the idle Detroit Tigers when they were held to three hits and whitewashed, 3 to 0, by Rae Scarborough, who had lost eight games in a row.

The remaining American League teams were washed out.

Action Over Nation

By International News Service

Penn State's impressive 27-to-6 win over Washington State Saturday not only confirmed reestablishment of the Nittany Lions as a football powerhouse, but also heightened interest in the host of other intercollegiate games on tap for the coming week-end.

Mighty Navy goes to the Far West to meet California on Saturday, Texas tangles with Oregon, Minnesota entertains Washington, Vanderbilt mixes with Northwestern, and S.M.U. travels to the west coast to play Santa Clara. And on Friday night, Iowa plays U.C.L.A. on the coast. Detroit faces Oklahoma, and Clemson meets Boston college at Boston.

SOME OF THESE teams saw action last Saturday. Iowa, known to boast a good running attack, also uncovered a sweet passing game in swamping North Dakota State, 59 to 0. Texas crushed formidable Texas Tech, 33 to 0. California, under Pappy Waldorf, former Northwestern coach, crushed Santa Clara, 33 to 7. Oregon stopped Montana State, 27 to 14. Get Welcome Relief From Stomach Gas, Sour Food Taste

Do you feel bloated and miserable after every meal? If so, here is how you may rid yourself of this nervous distress. Thousands have found it the way to be well, cheerful and happy again.

Everytime food enters the stomach a vital gastric juice must flow normally to break up certain food particles; else the food may ferment. Sour food, acid indigestion and gas frequently cause a morbid, touchy, fretful, peevish, nervous condition, loss of appetite, underweight, restless sleep, weakness.

To get real relief you must increase the flow of this vital gastric juice. Medical authorities, in independent laboratory tests on human stomachs, have by positive proof shown that SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in increasing this flow when it is too little or scanty due to a non-organic stomach disturbance. This is due to the SSS Tonic formula which contains special and potent activating ingredients.

Also, SSS Tonic helps build-up non-organic, weak, watery blood and nutritional anemia—so with a good flow of this gastric digestive juice, plus rich red-blood you should eat better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better.

Avoid punishing yourself with over-doses of soda and other alkalis to counteract gas and bloating when what you so dearly need is SSS Tonic to help you digest food for body strength and repair. Don't wait until the host of happy people SSS Tonic has helped. Millions of bottles sold. Get a bottle of SSS Tonic from your drug store today. SSS Tonic helps Build Sturdy Health.

ASHVILLE REDS WIN 5 TO 4 AS SERIES OPENS

Ankrom Leads 11-Hit Attack On George Spencer Of Reynoldsburg

Ashville Reds won a hard-fought 5-4 game from Reynoldsburg Sunday as the "Little Buckeye series" opened in Ashville Community park before a record crowd.

The Reds outdid the capital city champs 11-8. "Snap" Ankrom taught George Spencer, who is property of the New York Giants, to be careful with his fast ball. With two out in the first inning Ankrom hit the first pitch on the road by the waterworks for a home run. Later he added a double.

THE HOMER gave the Reds a lead which lasted only until the top of the second when Gerlach and Streng singled, both advanced on Wood's sacrifice and Gerlach scored as Purpera forced Streng.

The SCO champs again stepped ahead in the last of the second. Glen Belcher doubled. J. Gregg sacrificed but Belcher was trapped between second and third. Bob Harper singled Gregg to third. Harper stole second and when the catcher threw the ball into centerfield Gregg scored.

In the top of the third Reynoldsburg went ahead with two runs. Louthen and Russell singled. Knox was safe on Ankrom's error. Louthen scoring. Gerlach was safe on Belcher's error. Russell scoring.

From then until the last of the seventh Spencer and Mark Wylie, who went all the way for the Reds, matched zeros.

In the home half of the "stretch" frame Bob Tracey singled and stole second. Ankrom doubled but Tracey stopped at third. Wally Noon was purposely passed, filling the bases. Harold Gulick singled scored Tracey and Ankrom. Noon reaching third. Belcher forced Gulick. Noon scoring.

Reynoldsburg picked another run in the eighth when Lett singled and Streng tripled for the longest hit off Wylie.

The series will be continued next Sunday at the State Hospital field in Columbus.

HOW AMERICANS SPEND MONEY TOLD BY U. S.

Commerce Department Data Reveals Surprising Facts About Spending

A picture of how America lives and what people as a whole spend their money on is presented by the U. S. Department of Commerce in an itemized annual budget, from 1929 to 1946, showing scores of detailed personal expenditures ranging from food to postage stamps, the Institute of Life Insurance reported today.

Total personal consumption expenditures in 1946 came to $143.7 billions, more than double the 1929 aggregate and over 80 per cent more than consumers spent in 1929, the Institute stated.

BY FAR THE greatest part of aggregate individual spending, of course, went for the basic necessities of food, shelter and clothing, but some surprising amounts were spent for personal and other things that go to make up everyday living, the Institute stated, giving some of these estimated aggregate amounts spent in 1946 as follows:

Around $400 millions on restaurant tips.

Over $24 billions on personal care, with more than a billion dollars of this being spent in beauty parlors and barber shops.

Close to $400 millions for stationery and writing supplies.

Over $1.8 billions for maids and domestic service.

Two and one-half billion dollars for medical and dental care, of which over half went to doctors and about one-quarter to dentists.

Some $850 millions on expenses incident to death-funeral services, cemeteries and tombstones.

Close to $400 millions on taxicabs fares and tips.

ONE AND ONE-HALF billion dollars on reading matter—news-papers, books, magazines, etc.

Over a billion dollars on musical instruments, led by radios.

Nearly $600 millions on flowers, seeds and potted plants.

Nearly $40 millions for household pets and veterinary service.

Over $40 millions on college football games, an amount, incidentally, about double that spent to attend professional baseball games.

Of last year's total personal consumption expenditures, $87 billions were for soft goods, $14.9 billions for hard goods, and $41.7 billions for services, the Institute reported.

THE CLASSIFICATION of food and tobacco, which includes alcoholic beverages, was far in the lead as the biggest single source of aggregate personal spending, the Institute said.

The total for this group, amounting to $55 billions in 1946, was about 80 per cent greater than the combined amount of $30.7 billions spent on home rent or its equivalent plus household operation, the Institute stated.

The classification of clothing, accessories and jewelry was in third place with $22.2 billions, the Institute reported.

OHIO HIGHWAY SIGNS MUST BE STANDARD NOW

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 22—State Highway Director Murray D. Shaffer outlined a campaign today to standardize Ohio's highway markers.

"Confusion often begets accidents," Shaffer said in a letter to city officials, referring to present makeshift, non-uniform signs used around the state.

The highway director pointed out that improvisation was made necessary during the war by shortages of paint and metal. He insisted, however, that all new and replacement signs now must conform to state specifications.

STEEL PREDICTS HIGHER PRICES IF RATES GO UP

CLEVELAND, Sept. 22—Magazine Steel predicted today that steel prices would rise again if the railroads are granted a 10 per cent emergency freight rate increase.

"Market observers point out that such an increase would be promptly reflected in higher prices to consumers generally would be upped," Steel declared. The magazine added:

"Hiking of warehouse prices alone would hit a broad area of the consuming market severely since several hundred thousand small buyers are dependent upon distributors for supplies, something like 16 per cent of total steel output for sale currently moving through the warehouses into consumption."

BLOODY WEEKEND KEEPS POLICE AT COLUMBUS BUSY

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 22—Two persons were in critical condition today and three others were described as in "fair" to "good" condition as a result of a series of fights and brawls Saturday night in Columbus.

Police termed the series "the worst we have had for a long, long time." Five persons were shot and five others were beaten. Authorities arrested 21 people and held them pending investigation into the shootings and beatings.

Thomas Fullove, 45, Columbus, who was shot in the leg, was carried on the critical list at Grant hospital. Also listed as critical at White Cross hospital was Eleanor Howard, 28, Columbus, who was shot three times in the abdomen at her home.

HOW AMERICANS SPEND MONEY TOLD BY U. S.

Commerce Department Data Reveals Surprising Facts About Spending

A picture of how America lives and what people as a whole spend their money on is presented by the U. S. Department of Commerce in an itemized annual budget, from 1929 to 1946, showing scores of detailed personal expenditures ranging from food to postage stamps, the Institute of Life Insurance reported today.

Total personal consumption expenditures in 1946 came to $143.7 billions, more than double the 1939 aggregate and over 80 per cent more than consumers spent in 1929, the Institute stated.

BY FAR THE greatest part of aggregate individual spending, of course, went for the basic necessities of food, shelter and clothing, but some surprising amounts were spent for personal and other things that go to make up everyday living, the Institute stated, giving some of these estimated aggregate amounts spent in 1946 as follows:

Around $400 millions on restaurant tips.

Over $2 1/2 billions on personal care, with more than a billion dollars of this being spent in beauty parlors and barber shops.

Close to $400 millions for stationery and writing supplies.

Over $1.8 billions for maids and domestic service.

Two and one-half billion dollars for medical and dental care, of which over half went to doctors and about one-quarter to dentists.

Some $850 millions on expenses incident to death-funeral services, cemeteries and tombstones.

Close to $400 millions on taxicabs fares and tips.

ONE AND ONE-HALF billion dollars on reading matter—news-papers, books, magazines, etc.

Over a billion dollars on musical instruments, led by radios.

UNITED PRESS NEWS STORY

KAISER-FRAZER RANKS FOURTH IN PRODUCTION

Detroit, Aug. 16 (UP)—The Kaiser-Frazer Corp., banking on a war-born boom in new cars, has amazed automotive experts by turning up as the industry's fourth largest producer.

A little more than a year ago Kaiser and Frazer can did not exist except on paper. A little more than six months ago the company borrowed $12,000,000 to keep its head above financial waters.

Today production figures show K-F is grinding out some 2,500 passenger cars a week, better than any of the independent and run-up to the "Big Three"—General Motors, Ford and Chrysler.

And the company is making money.

Some observers call it a "miracle" that Kaiser-Frazer has been able to do what few fledgling manufacturers could accomplish—crash into the highly-competitive automobile business and stay there.

Admittedly the company cashed in on an opportune moment—a time when public clamor for new cars was at its highest. In part it disappointed the public by promising to build cars that would compete in the low-priced market and is offering now three models that are listed at the factory at $1,917, $2,152 and $2,500.

But what amazes the experts is that K-F has been able to build up its volume at all in the face of material shortages that have hampered the production schedules of even the long-established manufacturers. It hasn't been easy, but the result is another tribute to Henry Kaiser, the production miracle man of the war.

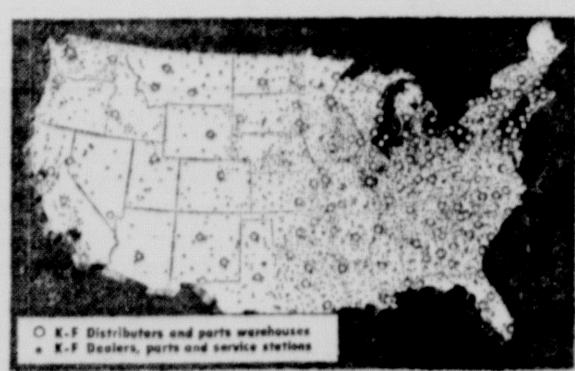

Kaiser seldom comes in direct contact with the changing production lines at the huge Willow Run plant, but wields power behind the scenes, especially in financial matters, and is consulted on all major moves.

His partner, Joseph W. Frazer, concerns himself mainly with sales of the new product.

Son Captains Production Teams On the scene at Willow Run the destinies of the company are guided by Edgar F. Kaiser, the 22-year-old son of the "old man," who has gathered about him a smart production team. The team has come a long way since June of last year when a total of seven cars was turned out. The June-a-year later—the company passed other independent makers an output of 12,000 units and is shooting for a goal of 14,000 in August.

Its labor force, containing a high percentage of young war veterans, has grown from a few thousand to 6,000 at the Willow Run plant.

and production is still being increased as rapidly as highest quality standards will permit!

subsequent conduct as chief of staff, including Order JCS 1067, which is responsible for most of our troubles in Europe. I want to make it clear that I am accusing General Eisenhower of nothing; I simply speculate on what Harry Truman must do to defeat Eisenhower, perhaps in advance of the Republican convention.

And then there is another little detail. General MacArthur, authentic hero of the last war and the hero of the peace when what has been done in Japan is compared to what is still being done in Europe, returns to the United States in April. Will roses be strewn in the path of the great pro-consul and will paean be sung in his honor in May and June, right up to the Republican convention? Who knows?

Opinions expressed by the writer in the column are the views of the author and not necessarily those of the Circleville Herald.

Legal Notice

LEGAL NOTICE
Sealed bids will be received by The City of Circleville, Ohio, until twelve o'clock noon on Monday, October 6, 1947, at the office of Ervin F. Leist, Public Utilities Manager, City Building, for furnishing three (3) new and unused electric transformers with the following specifications, or equal:
General Electric, Type H, single phase, oil immersed, self cooled, 66 cycle, 2400-4160V, to 240-480 volts, with taps on high side.

Each bid must contain the full name of every person or company interested in the same and be accompanied by a certified check in the sum of 10 per cent of the amount bid on some solvent bank drawn and made payable to The City of Circleville, Ohio, as a guaranty that if said bid is accepted, a contract will be entered into and its performance properly secured. Should any bid be rejected such check will be returned to the bidder, and should any bid be accepted said check will be returned upon proper execution and securing of the contract.

The City reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

Dated this 19th day of September 1947.

Tuners' Society Hums Doleful Note; Americans Neglecting Their Pianos! In Fact, Whole World Seems Off Key

TUNERS AT WORK—Society President Theodore Gose, A. V. Minifie and Mrs. Hannah Randall.

By JOHN CREECY

Central Press Correspondent

DETROIT—Sever hundred men whose aim is to bring harmony to a discordant world met in Detroit and decided that the outlook was not so good. The 700 men (and two women) are not politicians or reformers. They are the organized remnants of a vanishing profession—America's piano tuners.

Their meeting opened on a sour note with officials of the organization—its formal name is the American Society of Piano Technicians—showing by means of statistics that it is only a matter of time until all pianos will be out of tune.

"Look," said Theodore F. Gose of Chicago, president of the society, "there are 16,000,000 pianos in the United States. There are only 3,000 professional tuners."

"Considering that a piano should be tuned every three or four months, it is easy to understand why the guy next door thinks he is a musician and the neighbors do not."

"Something has got to be done. We have reached the crossroads. Our members average 54 years of age and we cannot carry on forever."

Since the days of World War I, the once familiar army of tuners with little black bags has declined steadily. The delegates, and observers from as far away as India, solemnly discussed the consequences that could result if the trend continues.

"The whole world will be off key," said A. V. (Jock) Minifie, the chairman. "Either we'll have a million psychiatrists or we'll go nuts."

Oddly enough, the piano tuners are seldom musicians. Vibrations rule their lives; about notes and music they care not a whit.

The 700 delegates had quite a difficult time finding somebody who could play while they sang the national anthem.

"Not one piano tuner in a hundred can play," Minifie conceded. "We're too busy to learn."

It is the vibrations, rather than the player's musicianship that causes you to tear your hair when the piano next door goes haywire, he explained.

"You start with the premise that a perfectly tuned piano is an improperly tuned one," he mused. "Shadings in vibration must be used to provide 'voice.' One tuner rarely agrees with the work of another. A perfect field for the ladies, but women seem to have overlooked the profession completely."

Not quite completely, however—there are four professional women tuners in the country. Two of them were at the convention. Both of them, incidentally, are musicians as well.

Mrs. Hannah Randall of Rockford, Mass., is one. The other is Mrs. Helen Dowling of Minerva, O., who wound up as a piano tuner because she could not stand to see wobbly legs on a piano. She found the wobbly legged instrument in the home of a friend. Its tone was terrible.

"This was because there was no foundation for the voice," she said. "I took the loose legs off, plugged the torn screw holes with flag-sticks and set new screws. It played beautifully."

This success led her to take an interest in the profession. She discovered why there is so little new blood in it. It calls for too much preparation.

Back in the old days, as Gose explained, the piano factories provided apprentice courses. "But big money in the unskilled jobs has caused the young fellows to shy away from apprenticeships."

Mrs. Dowling was undaunted, however, when she found out what was before her.

She enrolled in the school of pianoforte technology in Chicago Musical college. For six months there was a daily grind of decimals, higher mathematics and sound waves. Then she took an examination at the convention. It included lifting a 125-pound keyboard assembly tenderly from its rest.

Three men who took the examination failed. Mrs. Dowling passed and was granted full membership in the profession.

Those who are fortunate to have a herb garden should set about soon to move it into the kitchen for winter use. Many of the plants can be lifted and moved indoors in flower pots or kitchen window boxes. A sunny window is required for their continued growth.

As illustrated in the accompanying Garden-Graph, upon digging up a clump of herbs any length, straggling roots should be cut off, rather than attempt to curl them under in the bottom of the flower pot.

Bulb pots are useful for transplanting herbs, but the plants should be cut to fit

AID TO CONCENTRATION
VETERAN cardmen, who are thorough students of the game, have learned that the easiest of all contracts to play—when it is the right contract—is a grand slam. At a lower contract, especially away down in the part-score zone, the declarer has to keep track of every detail, knowing that the slightest little thing may prove crucial. When the contract is a grand slam, he is able to concentrate on the job much more easily, as his entire assignment is to avoid the loss of one trick.

Dealer: East. East-West vulnerable.

East 10 8 6 4 3 2
South 10 8 6 4 3 2
West 10 8 6 4 3 2
North 10 8 6 4 3 2

Following the club K lead, South did some thinking. West must have had a very long suit to make his vulnerable overall, with so few high cards out. Hence he was sure to be short in other suits, with East quite long. East might even have five spades, in which case the suit wouldn't break and a progressive squeeze might be needed. In fact, the squeeze began to work on the first trick, when East discarded a heart in preference to either suit his opponents had bid.

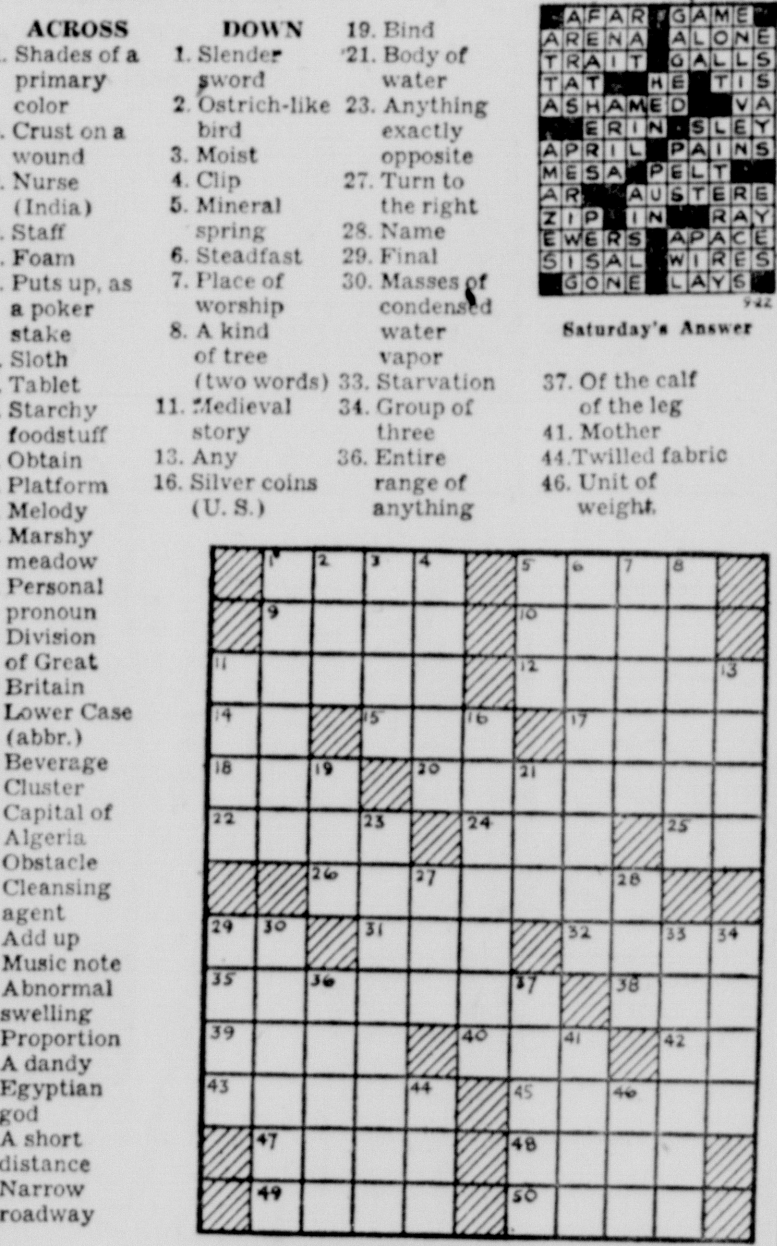

So South decided to try hearts and found that they broke. The last squeezed East again, between the diamonds and spades. Since the spade discard would be clearly disastrous, he selected the diamond 2. South then took in the diamond A and K, used the spade K as a re-entry to his own hand, laid down the diamond Q to clear that suit, scored the diamond 7 and completed his contract with the spade A, Q and J.

This was of course a freak hand, also a freak play, which was practically set up for South by the way the cards were distributed. But it was much easier for him to see and develop than if it were required at a low contract. When you lose a trick or two, win a trick or two, lose one or two more, win again, and keep on that way, it is much harder to keep track of all vital factors.

All-Out Observance of Fire Prevention Week Sought In County

FARM FAMILIES URGED TO USE MORE CAUTION

Best Points To Heavy Toll Every Year From Fires Across Nation

Urging all Pickaway county residents to observe Fire Prevention Week—designated as Oct. 5-11 by President Truman—County Agricultural Agent Larry A. Best, Monday, appealed to all farm families to take every possible step to protect themselves and their property against fire.

"Every day in this nation 100 farm fires take the lives of 10 farmers and one farm fire in every 10 results in death," declared Best. "At least 90 per cent of all farm fires are preventable. Unlike fire fighting there is nothing hard about fire prevention and there are few farm fires which cannot be prevented by carefulness."

He pointed out that never before in history has fire prevention in the United States become so important. Best cited that fire losses in 1947 are running 300 per cent over the 1937 figure.

THE ESTIMATED 1947 total losses, Best asserted, will be 700 million dollars. He added that the National Fire Protection Association has disclosed that a fire breaks out in this country once every 20 seconds—right around the clock—or a total of 1,700,000 fires per year at the present rate of burning.

About 11,000 people lose their lives by fire each year, statistics show, and more than half of them are women and children.

"Confirming the fact that most farm fires can be prevented," Best said, "there is a noticeable decrease in the number and severity of farm fires during and for a few weeks following each annual Fire Prevention Week."

"Then the curve of fire losses once more resumes its upward trend. The reason is obvious. For a few short weeks farm folks remember what they have read or heard about the destructiveness of fires and are alert to its causes. Then they forget that fire and carelessness don't mix, perhaps in the mistaken belief that 'it can't happen to me.' Many will get by despite their carelessness—but too many lose to make the risk worth while."

"SOMETIMES we are not always sure of fire dangers. Here are some of the needs to be constantly aware of:

"1—The careless smoker. He smokes in the barn and in bed and he discards lighted cigarettes and matches.

"2—The thoughtless housewife. She stacks papers, magazines, old clothing, broken toys and discarded furniture, in the attic, the closets, the basement, the barn, and in other outbuildings. She carelessly tosses oily rags in a heap rather than placing them in metal containers. This debris is perfect tinder for any spark and is often the source of spontaneous ignition.

"3—Dangerous storage of gasoline and kerosene, and use of flammable cleaning fluids take a high toll of life and property. Never use explosive cleaning fluids, and store flammable liquids in metal containers away from buildings.

"4—Children playing with matches cause 26,000 fires annually in the United States. Keep matches out of the reach of small children and preferably in metal containers. Break a match in half before discarding it to be sure it is out.

"5—Clean lanterns regularly. Use care in the barn. Remember that Mrs. O'Leary's cow kicked over a lantern and started the great Chicago fire 75 years ago.

"6—Clean dust and cobwebs away from motors, appliances, and machinery, to avoid the danger of a spark setting a flash fire.

"7—Don't attempt to operate defective electrical appliances. Replace frayed cords promptly.

"8—Clean the heating plant and the chimney at least once a year.

"9—Properly cure hay and keep it under weather-tight roofs to avoid spontaneous ignition."
